Lightning Bolt Kills Five Girls At Idaho Camp

Nine Other Girls Injured As Lightning Hit Big Pine Tree

DRIGGS, Idaho, Aug. 2.—(INS)—The bodies of five young girls who were killed by a lightning bolt when they sought shelter under a tree during a sudden storm, will be brought out today from the rugged Teton mountains near the Idaho-Wyoming border.

Nine other girls were injured by the thunderous flash of lightning. Five of them were hospitalized last night at Driggs, 15 miles from the scene of the mountain tragedy.

At Girls Camp

The dead and injured girls were in a group of 42 spending their vacation at a Mormon girls camp near Driggs in eastern Idaho.

They made the tragic error of separating from the group and rushing under a tree just before the bolt struck and enveloped the area with thousands of volts of white flame.

Those killed were:

Carol Engstrom, Betty Kearney, Bernice Malone, Mary D. Severson and Ora Holst, all from Idaho Falls. Their ages ranged from 12 to 19.

The five seriously injured girls, suffering from burns and shock, were moved by horse-packtrain and ambulance to the Driggs hospital.

Those injured were:

Deon Bitter, Gwen Albright, Betty Oldman, Garna Rosmund and Mary Lou Ovard.

Four other injured did not require hospitalization.

Fred K. Miller, veteran mountain guide and camp leader of the girls, was credited with saving the lives of the five girls brought to the hospital.

The 42 girls set out at 6:30 a.m. yesterday from their camp eight

Pa News notices that finishing touches are being put on the exterior of the new packing plant adjacent to Mahoning avenue. Stock pens have been built to handle the animals that will be received before they are slaughtered. The building is an impressive affair as it is viewed from the Mahoning avenue viaduct.

Traveling about the city by bus, Pa News observes that very few sections if any are exempt from high weeds which are obnoxious to hay fever sufferers at this time of the year. Large lots have been let grow up in the fall weeds which have gone to seed providing a new crop for next year.

One of the most unusual gardens of the city is found at the property of William Weitz, Sr., of 702 West Madison avenue. Mr. Weitz spends a good deal of time in the garden and now his prolonged efforts are bearing fruit. The family refrigerator is presently overstocked with the fresh vegetables.

Traffic has been slowed down considerably in the North Beaver Township section along Route 551 where workmen are widening and preparing to resurface the road. Considerable machinery is on the job and care must be used in traveling in that area.

An interesting sidelight of the Mahoning school reunion conducted Wednesday in the Mahoning school was the fact that a number of former teachers of the early pupils were on hand for the event.

Missing Reds May Be Hiding Out In Mexico

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—(INS)—Federal agents, stymied in the search for four bail-jumping communist leaders convicted of conspiracy, investigated reports today that the missing Reds may have gone to Mexico.

The search was launched after reports circulated that a long-standing plan to set up a "substitute communist movement" underground and south of the border is being put into operation.

The four—who forfeited $80,000 in bail put up by the Civil Rights Congress in becoming fugitives from justice—are Robert Thompson, Gus Hall, Gilbert Green and Henry Winston.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—A victory for the so-called "black shoe" or "battleship" navy was seen today in President Truman's sudden appointment of Adm. William M. Fechteler as the new chief of naval operations.

Intimates said that Fechteler, while not disparaging navy aviation, believes that the strength of the navy lies primarily in its warships.

Red Buildup Area In Central Korea Center Of Attack

(BULLETIN)

EIGHTH U.S. ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Aug. 2.—(INS)—Allied troops advanced 3,000 to 5,000 yards today in a renewed attack on a Communist buildup area on the central Korean front.

The Eighth Army reported that the Allied forces ran into "little or no resistance" as they moved forward in the sector south-southeast of Kumsong.

In previous attacks toward Kumsong which lies 28 miles north of Parallel 38 Allied patrols have run up against entrenched Red troops. Main enemy forces retreated to defenses below Kumsong several weeks ago after United Nations forces smashed into the old "Iron Triangle" supply and buildup area.

Air Operations Hampered

Allied air operations were hampered by clouds and rain in early sorties Thursday morning but during the night B-29s blasted enemy frontline positions with anti-personnel bombs.

The bridge was constructed by the New Castle Duntile company, with the sub-contract for the steel work being done by the Conn Welding and Machine company.

Flood Of Price Increase Applications Is Expected

By FREEMAN FULBRIGHT

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Price controllers are setting up machinery today to handle an expected flood of price increase applications for automobiles and other consumer goods.

The new controls law requires the Office of Price Stabilization to consider applications for price adjustments from anyone whose present ceilings do not reflect cost increases through last July 26.

That hits the agency's six major manufacturers' regulations which allow labor and materials cost increases through last March in most cases.

It also goes back to OPS' earliest price rules, affecting autos, hides and skins, and fats and oils.

Eisenhower Is Free To Return

By ROBERT G. NIXON

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—President Truman said today that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is "much too wrapped up" in his job of building European defenses to give any thought to politics.

The elder statesman, who talked with Eisenhower in Paris on July 7, described him as a man directing a "crusade" and said anyone attempting to drag the North Atlantic pact defense chief into the political arena is doing "a disservice to this country."

Baruch made his comments in a shipboard interview when newsmen sounded him out with regard to reports that Eisenhower may run or be drafted for president in 1952.

Bubble-Like Sphere Seen On Wednesday Was Weather Balloon

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 2.—(INS)—Residents of Ohio and Pennsylvania were still scanning the sky today but feeling relieved after they learned the strange "craft" they spotted was just a weather balloon.

Hundreds of inquiries were received by police and radio stations in the area yesterday when the bubble-like sphere made its appearance high over Cleveland and drifted slowly across Pennsylvania to Maryland.

Final and positive identification of the high flying ball was made by a group of P-56 jet pilots from the Greater Pittsburgh Airport. Flyers from the Pittsburgh field said the object of their search turned out to be a plastic type weather balloon estimated by some to be 150 to 200 feet in diameter.

Earlier yesterday two jets from Selfridge Field, Mich. were forced by a fuel shortage to return to their base before making positive identification, although the pilots sighted the globe and said they thought it was a weather balloon.

Reds Refuse To Change Stand On Buffer Zone

Reds Refuse To Alter Demand For 38th Parallel Zone

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN

(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

UN TRUCE CAMP NEAR KAESONG, Aug. 2.—(INS)—

The Allies directly warned the Communists across the Kaesong conference table today that they will never accept a Korean truce line which would be "indefensible" in case of "an armistice violation by the other side."

Despite this blunt face-to-face warning, the Red delegates refused for a seventh straight day to abandon their demand for a cease-fire buffer zone straddling Parallel 38, artificial political border between North and South Korea.

Some observers at the United Nations Truce Camp below Kaesong expressed fear the armistice parley was nearing a possible breakdown. Others speculated that the Red delegation is stalling for time while awaiting new orders from Pyongyang, Peiping and Moscow.

Predicts Parley Collapse.

A leftist British newsman "covering" the Kaesong negotiations for the Communist side predicted collapse of the conference within five days. Another said Secretary of State Acheson's rejection of the 38th Parallel as an armistice line had "wrecked" the prospects of peace for Korea.

However, a glimmering hope was kept alive by the fact the Allied and Red delegates agreed to meet again Friday morning at 11 o'clock (9 p.m. Thursday EDT).

Thursday's tense 17th session, which lasted one hour and 20 minutes, failed to crack the weekend deadlock over the all-important issue of where to set up a demilitarized zone across Korea.

The United Nations Supreme Command announced that the "fundamental differences" over this question "remained unresolved" at the close of the day's talks.

A briefing officer quoted Vice

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—(INS)—Administration chances for approval of the entire $3.5 billion dollar foreign aid bill appeared dead today in view of the 700 million dollar slash recommended by a key lawmaker.

The 8.2 per cent cut was proposed by Chairman Richards (D-S.C.) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee who will be in charge of the bill when his unit sends it to the House floor.

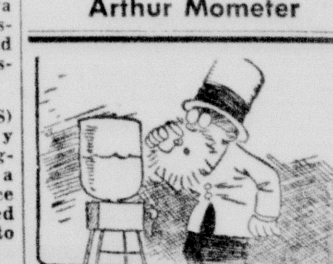

Richards was said to have sponsored the cut in the hope of staying off an even greater attack on the foreign aid program from

Reds Refuse To Change Stand On Buffer Zone

Adm. Charles Turner Joy, chief UN delegate as having told the Reds at Thursday's suspenseful meeting that the Allies have "no intention of violating any military armistice agreed upon."

No Indefensible Position
The lean-visaged American admiral then warned:

"Neither will the United Nations Command place itself in an indefensible position in the event of an armistice violation by the other side."

Joy was apparently replying to a question by Gen. Nam Il, head of the North Korean-Chinese delegation, asking why the Allies insist on a defensible demarcation line.

He reportedly said the present war front—when an armistice would require both sides to cease hostilities.

Implying the Reds still were injecting political material into the talks, the UN command in its latest communiqué said Joy made "a further effort to keep the negotiations focussed on pertinent military matters."

During Thursday's 80-minute session, the bulletin said, the chief UN delegate "twice attempted to secure an expression of opinion" from Nam Il "on the basic responsibilities of military commanders to their respective forces during a military armistice."

"Neither time did General Nam Il respond directly," the communiqué stated.

Demand Made Twice
The briefing officer, Brig. Gen. William F. Nuckols, quoted Adm. Joy as having twice demanded of Nam Il:

"Do you or do you not agree that the security of his forces is the responsibility of a commander during a military armistice?"

Nuckols, who sits in at all the Kaesong meetings, said Joy put this question first at 11:24 and then at 11:56 a.m., and that it left the five Red delegates "non-plussed."

"There was a considerable flurry of excitement when the query was delivered the second time," Nuckols related.

"Then from 11:59 a.m. to 12:06 p.m., the conference room remained almost silent as the Communists whispered hurriedly among themselves in an attempt to form a reply."

The silence was broken, Nuckols continued, when Nam Il asked "somewhat hopefully" whether Joy had anything further to say. The American admiral replied with a blunt "No" at 12:10 p.m.

After another four minutes of silence, Nam Il evidently probing and stalling, asked Joy again for further comment and again was turned down.

Finally, at 12:14 p.m., the 38-year-old North Korean general volunteered the information that the Communists had "nothing more to say for the present," Nuckols related.

Two minutes later, Nam Il again expounded briefly on the Communists' unwillingness to accept the UN proposal for a cease-fire zone and then asked that the talks be recessed until Friday.

FLOOD OF PRICE INCREASE PLEAS ARE EXPECTED

catious has not begun but a top-level agency official announced yesterday that the Chrysler Corp. has indicated it wants a 9.5 per cent increase in car prices.

The official said Chrysler has not "technically and legally" filed an application under the new law but "explored the situation yesterday morning with agency officials."

In Detroit, Chrysler spokesmen said the company "has been showing OPS what its cost increases have been since the Korean war. The corporation is only following one of the requirements of the new control law."

May Get Higher Prices
Other OPS officials have said auto makers may be entitled to as much as 10 per cent higher prices to "catch up" with rising cost since their prices were frozen last December.

Administration supporters in Congress have announced they will fight for quick changes in the law which President Truman condemned as inflationary and unfair.

Chairman Maybank (D-S.C.) said his Senate Banking Committee will conduct hearings on any changes proposed by the administration but added he could not promise they will be approved.

In other controls developments, President Truman created a new federal agency with overall authority over purchases of critical and strategic defense materials.

economy-minded legislators, including some on his own committee.

Can Be "Cut Somewhat"
Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Connally (D-Tex.), whose committee is holding closed hearings, said he too, thinks it can be "cut somewhat."

Non-administration Senators have called for reductions of up to 50 per cent or a total of 4.2 billion dollars.

Richards said the trimming he recommends does not "hamper the program." He declared that defense against Communism must be a joint effort and "we must use our own resources but we must assure ourselves that our allies will do all within their power to become self-sustaining as soon as possible."

The cut which Richards urged includes 550 million dollars in European aid funds. Of this, 265 million would be in arms-aid and 285 million in economic assistance.

said Ike's only thought now is to unite and fortify Europe against the threat of aggression. He said:

"I never saw a man so thoroughly imbued with the need and necessity of the immediate task before him or more determined to accomplish it. I don't think he thinks of anything else."

Baruch, who was met by his son, Commander Bernard M. Baruch, Jr., USNR, said his talk with Eisenhower centered about European defense and economies. Baruch elaborated:

"Our talks were non-political and concerned with peace. I found that the general is not interested in the difficulties of uniting Europe, but in the solutions to these problems."

Baruch said he made a tour of GI camps in his three-week stay in Europe and found morale "very high." He talked with U.S. soldiers, visited their barracks and even participated in their instruction classes. He said:

"The boys wanted to know what was happening back home about the cost of living, inflation and conditions here. I wanted to know about their living conditions and found they are being well cared for."

24-Hour Bombardment

The Helena launched its bombardment after Communist shore batteries started to shell Allied warships.

Ground action continued light Wednesday. Swollen rivers in the west and thunder-storms in the east hindered UN patrols.

In the Yangu area of the east-central front, a series of squad and platoon-sized engagements were fought by Allied patrols within 3,000 yards of their own lines. The patrols withdrew after they found Communist troops defending positions closer to Allied lines than at any other point along the front.

Field House Will Be Used

New Westminster Building To Serve As Big Dining Hall

Westminster college's new Memorial Field House, which has been erected on the athletic field, will be used for the first time during the ensuing two weeks.

The building is equipped with a special kitchen, so that it can be available for large banquet events.

In this capacity, as a dining hall for the delegates to the annual New Wilmington Missionary conference, which starts on Friday, it will get its first period of use.

Several hundred of the delegates will eat at the Field House building. In previous years of the conference a temporary kitchen was erected near the old gymnasium and the gymnasium was used as a dining room.

The new Field House will provide for banquets where a large seating capacity is anticipated, in the future at the college.

Value Of Spanish Assistance

The extent and value of Spanish military assistance to the west in event of war with Soviet Russia have come to the forefront of international importance today.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco's Foreign Minister Alberto Martin Artajo re-raised the issue of negotiations undertaken by the late Adm. Forrest P. Sherman in Madrid by accusing Great Britain and France of hypocrisy in opposing the arrangement.

In an interview with the government newspaper Arriba, Martin Artajo injected a new note into the situation with his insistence that Spain has never made a serious attempt to enter the North Atlantic treaty organization.

Deals With U. S.

He said that Spain decided to deal directly with the United States, with the nation considering its real and potential military aid essential to the defense of western Europe.

Martin Artajo's disclaimer of any Spanish desire to enter the international organization created for European protection appears somewhat at variance with some former official Spanish statements regarding the nation.

But it does not in definitely with one frequent declaration of Franco himself—that Spain can and will stand by itself as a hermetically sealed entity in agreement with the west should be impossible.

Position Of Spain
The position of Spain with regard to the whole rest of the world has been described in many languages and in many conflicting versions.

Stories have been told of wealth and of anarchy living cheek-by-jowl with indescribable poverty; the ordinary people have been pictured on one hand as satisfied and on another as seething with unrest.

But there seems to be little doubt that the mass of the population sees its future tied closely with western democracy as against any possible compromise with Communism, and this doubtless was much in Adm. Sherman's mind during his negotiations.

There seems to be some disposition in the British and French press as well as in officialdom to temper and tone down the original heavy criticism of the Spanish-American agreement.

It may take some time for any official switch in policy to be registered.

But it nevertheless is true that

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

YOU CAN TEACH CHILDREN NUMBERS

When we parents enjoy the child two, three, 10 or 12 about the home, he grows interested in what we say or do. Even the tot two or three hears and sees us count things and he likes to count them with us—potatoes, apples, eggs, clothespins, handkerchiefs and the like.

Long before he goes to school he may hear us talk about the pail being half full and he may at play fill his pail half full of sand. Also he may learn what half-past three or a quarter to four means. The more companionable we are and the more freely we converse with him, the more surely he will learn to count things and gain simple number concepts without even an idea of a half or a fourth.

Watches Mother
When he is six or eight he observes his mother measuring as she cooks and bakes. Being a good companion of hers, he may have a happy adventure himself at cooking and baking, measuring as he follows a recipe. He soon learns the relative meaning of quarts, pints, pounds, ounces or four fourths thereof. So also he sees her measuring cloth, paper or other materials about the house with a ruler, yardstick or tape measure. Being a good companion of his father, the child very early observes him measuring as he makes or repairs things about the house.

Having drawn, colored and painted just for fun since he began to scribble, and having made things for fun with simple tools, especially when making things with either parent or an older brother or sister, the child grows interested very early in measuring with a purpose. Thus the girl or boy often having good times watching others make things and gradually making things himself, learns the meaning of yard, foot, inches and common fractions of inches. Early interest and practice at measuring lengths come especially early if the child is encouraged to make things from cardboard and wood.

Common Fractions
Our children had mastered the basic ideas of common fractions long before the subject came up at school. I noticed that the boys, especially, practiced at changing feet to inches; changing halves to fourths, eighths to sixteenths or vice versa without ever having been taught. They taught themselves as they measured with a purpose in their workshop, and fourths and halves or pints and quarts, or pounds and ounces, when they added or subtracted they encountered no difficulties.

But in spite of all this incidental learning of unit and fractional concepts, while having fun at making things, they did need some special guidance and drill around the second, third and fourth grades. In learning by heart the simple addition and subtraction facts. Trusting to their learning from normal experience with these facts is wasteful—the reason why so many children are slow and inaccurate in arithmetic. My bulletin, "Home Helps in Arithmetic," may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me at 235 East 45th street, New York, N. Y.

Another thing we like about New Castle . . . they never forget the Old Timers . . . again this year as for many, many years in the past one day of the summer has been designated as Old Timers Day. Cascade Park pavilion has been engaged and during the afternoon of August 15th . . . the Old Timers and their friends and family will meet.

What happens at one of these annual parties . . . why the best kind of visiting . . . visiting with old friends . . . An Old Timer is anyone who remembers some embarrassing incident that happened to you in the first grade of public school.

The party on August 15th will start at two o'clock . . . Frank Robinson will be there with all his pep to get the Grand March going at that time. The Grand March is really something to see . . . and to be seen in. The same orchestra will be on hand to furnish the music of yesteryear . . . Mrs. Emery on the podium.

Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts will mingle with the crowd . . . it's their job to see that chairs are where they should be and that drinking water is plentiful. Sometimes the crowds get so large at these Old Timers parties that it takes an hour or more just to get around the dance floor . . . and if you young ones think you can dance, you had better take a quick look at this party . . . After seventy a dancer seems to get his or her second wind.

Of course there will be prizes . . . for the oldest man and woman . . . the one that traveled the farthest to attend. The one with the largest number of brothers and sisters present. The youngest member of the party . . . and some surprises that haven't been announced as yet.

Paul Fred Butz . . . is chairman of the event . . . and he has some tricks up his sleeve . . . some Old Timer celebrities will be on hand. So mark down the date . . . August 15 . . . two o'clock . . . Cascade Park. Send word to your out-of-town friends . . . tell 'em to come back to New Castle for that day.

Diplomatic Intelligence Undermined

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—While the damage it has done is not obvious to the public, one of the most serious blows to national security since the end of World War II is the undermining of the whole system of diplomatic intelligence built up through the years.

This is perhaps the most ominous aspect of the demoralization of the state department, which is in turn one of the dire results of McCarthyism and the technique of the smear.

A little background on the American foreign service is necessary to understand the seriousness of what has happened. Before the career service was started, with promotion based on merit, diplomatic posts went almost entirely to hack politicians who had to be paid off. If they were any good, it was purely an accident.

Institute Civil Service
In 1924 when a civil service system was instituted, able young men were drawn into diplomacy. These were the men who had been in the field for European titles and forgot their American origins. But they were the exceptions to the rule of dedicated public servants working often under disagreeable and dangerous conditions.

As civil servants following orders, they were necessarily anonymous. This anonymity was an essential screen to their usefulness as experts with no axe to grind aside from a devotion to the facts. These facts as reported from the field might be highly unpalatable to the policy-makers in Washington, but it was the continuing duty of the experts in the field to report them nevertheless. Without such objective reporting the men making policy at the top would be flying blind or with wrong signals.

Shield Of Anonymity Gone
Now that shield of anonymity is gone. Reports written from the field by the experts have been taken out of the department and used as ammunition in the battle between the state department and its accusers.

In the China white paper, that brilliant, lawyerlike brief in which Secretary of State Dean Acheson defended the administration's Asian policy, excerpts are quoted from the dispatches of several foreign service officers in China from 1943 to '45. One was John P. Davies Jr., an able and dedicated civil servant, who has now been suspended on loyalty charges, pending the workings of the long and cumbersome loyalty procedure.

These dispatches were written for the eyes of the secretary and his assistants along with others in Washington helping to formulate policy. It was the best judgment of the current situation made by men with specialized knowledge and background.

Now Has Declined
Today that kind of objective reporting to the department has declined sharply in quality. It is being reduced to a cautious, timid rehash of what will give the least offense should the report later become public.

This should surprise no one. Scarcely a day passes that one of these once-anonymous assistants is not involved in some way or other in the controversy over Asian policy. Messages are taken out of the context of the time and the situation in which they were written and splashed over the front pages. The individual finds not only his career but his reputation at stake in the tortuous loyalty process.

Obvious Blame Target
The obvious target for the blame is McCarthyism. But there is more and more inclination here to assign at least some blame to those at the top in the state department who give way on every point to the attackers. Secretary Acheson, like the heroine in the movie serials of another day, escapes with his virtue after each encounter. But as he flees, he leaves behind him bleeding victims sacrificed in his behalf.

President Truman spoke righteously words in his Detroit speech about the damage done by McCarthyism. But there is a related question as to the courage and capacity to meet with courage and forthrightness the smear attack. Surrender has gone to such an extent that the inevitable result is demoralization.

When the McCarthy charges were making screaming headlines, it was proposed that a bipartisan commission be named jointly by congress and the White House to investigate not only the charges but the way in which they were made. The president brushed that proposal aside. He clearly did not realize the seriousness of what had happened.

How to undo the damage that has been done is a little like trying to put Humpty Dumpty together again. Once basic values have been undermined, it is difficult to restore confidence and belief.

Yet it is a foreign country, in spite of the fact that you can stand with one foot in the United States, and the other in Canada. You realize that it is foreign because two-thirds of the people here speak French, look French, act French.

Montreal is swarming with tourists—the great majority of them recognizable at once as AMERICANS.

Canada, of course, is America. But somehow, we from the "States" with our well-known conceit, think of ourselves alone as "Americans."

I think we can learn a lot from the Canadians.

For one thing they seem to be more polite than we are. I mean, you notice it at the border. The customs and immigration officials are pleasant on the Canadian side. In "America" they—at least the ones I met—are grouchy, unpleasant, business-like.

I talked to one of them about it on our previous trip.

"Of course they are polite," he said and waved over to the other side of the border. "Why shouldn't they be? Most of our people go over there to SPEND money and bring dollars into Canada."

"They buy a lot of stuff over there and then they try to cheat us out of our duty."

The Enchanted Isle

(By HOLMES ALEXANDER)

LAGES FIELD, Azores, Aug. 2.—Air Force Sergeant Michael Foust stepped into the office of Major Robert Ulrich, fumbled at his cap and looked a little embarrassed in a boyish way. He didn't click his heels or salute or speak, but Major Ulrich said:

"I hear you mother and two sisters have just landed at the commercial airbase at Santa Maria. They want to come over and see you. That right?"

"Yes, sir," said Mike Foust.

"Well, we'll arrange quarters for them," said Ulrich who is the station security officer here. "Tomorrow you get somebody else to do your work. We'll fly you over in the shuttle plane, and you can come back with them."

Reveals American Outpost

Somehow this little family reunion scene, with its touching humanity and informality, tells more about this American outpost than all the statistics I've been collecting here. In order to bring Mike's mother and kid sisters, who'd flown over 2000 miles to see him, Major Ulrich had to get permission of the Portuguese commandant, but that was only a matter of friendly request. The American 1605th Air Base Group is a garrison at Lages Field which is a small section of Portuguese Air Base, Number Four. The guest-host relationship prevails with all the ease and courtesy of life on a Southern plantation.

This, in a word, is peace—and it is wonderful. Moreover, it is peace that is founded on mutual respect and common interest between equals. It is peace that perfectly befits a lovely verdant island with growing crops, playing children and white-walled chapels under an unbroken azure sky.

I like to think, too, that it befits the true genius and spirit of the mightiest military nation on earth. If the hob-nail boot and the steel helmet have been the symbols of old imperialism, you can say for American expansionism that it has entered the Azores Archipelago in carpet slippers and hat in hand.

No American Firearms

If there is an American firearm on this beautiful island of Terceira, I have not seen it. The only gun I've spotted was on the hip of a Portuguese Republican guard who was jolling at the airport restaurant, talking to a pretty girl. There are no rifles, except a few unmanned ones left over from World War II. There are no artillery anywhere in sight. There are no fighter planes, and there are only six aircraft that even suggest military use. These are remodeled B-17's, minus their gun turrets and bomb racks, which are used for air-sea rescue and interception. Four of these Fighting Fortresses are Portuguese, and the other two are ours.

But all through the day and night you hear the roar of four-engine planes—jet transports. Last year 2853 transport-type planes went through this station, carrying 43,358 persons who were supplied with 60,482 in-flight box lunches. This is easily the most important airport in the Atlantic area. Here the statistics do tell the tale, for they tell it in terms of pay-load. A C-54 Skymaster could fly non-stop from Westover Field (Mass.) to Paris, but it could carry only 1000 pounds of cargo. By refueling at Lages Field it can carry 9900 pounds. A much bigger plane, the C-97 Stratocruiser, could carry 13,000 pounds on a direct Westover-Paris hop. A stop-over in the Azores raises the poundage to about 24,000.

American Advantages

The American advantages, come war or peace, are plainly evident; but the bargain with the Portuguese government is at least even. Stephen. Our part of the deal is to provide employment and training for the native population, both skilled and unskilled, at wage scales fixed by the Portuguese. The figures are kept secret, but suffice it to say that there is neither unemployment nor poverty on this somewhat enchanted isle.

Barbicans, clubs, vegetable gardens and general repair jobs are all staffed by the islanders, but it would greatly disconcert the Communists to learn how many of these people are working shoulder to shoulder with our GIs at technical and responsible tasks under the job-training program. In the station photography shop, for example, there are two technicians only, and both are Portuguese. At the flight line station there are native propeller and hydraulic experts. In the weather station there are Portuguese teletype operators, weather observers and weather forecasters. This is in every sense a bi-national set-up. And it's operated on a system of collective bargaining that makes you wonder why nations ever commit the ghastly folly called war.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

This column is being written in a foreign country.

I wouldn't think of it as a foreign country except looking out of my window I see the flag of Canada on the roof of a skyscraper a block away.

Out in the streets I was almost run over by the same makes of automobiles that almost run you down in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Detroit, Charlotte, Dayton or Mobile.

All over the countryside between the border and Montreal, where I am right now, you see the same dog 'n' dog stands, the same motels, the same crazy drivers, as anywhere in the United States.

Yet it IS a foreign country, in spite of the fact that you can stand with one foot in the United States, and the other in Canada. You realize that it is foreign because two-thirds of the people here speak French, look French, act French.

Montreal is swarming with tourists—the great majority of them recognizable at once as AMERICANS.

State Farm Roundup

Farm Prices
Are Going UpCity Folks In State
Partly To Blame

By AL SPIVAK

HARRISBURG, Aug. 2.—Prices of farms are going up in Pennsylvania—and city folks are partly to blame.

"Demand is strong now for farms in the state," reported Carson F. Mertz, state director of the Farmers Home Administration.

"Many city people are buying farm properties with good buildings and in most cases they aren't quibbling over prices," he said.

Land prices leveled off in Pennsylvania toward the end of last year, according to Mertz, but in February began a new upward trend.

Farms in Pennsylvania's northern tier of counties of the average are selling from $6,000 to $14,000, he said. In southwest counties they are bringing an average $8,000 to $20,000 and in the southeast area of the state prices start at $10,000.

Tenants or hired hands farm the properties purchased by city residents, said Mertz, and satisfaction has been reported for the most part on both sides.

More Interested

"The average city businessman is more interested in farming today than ever before," Mertz believes.

His only regret is that advancing farm prices are making it difficult for family-type farms to remain in operation.

"It is getting harder all the time for a family to receive sufficient income operating a farm to put the children through school and still save a bit for future years," he said.

To succeed, said Mertz, the proprietor of a family-type farm must have a shrewd business sense, must keep thoroughly informed and must be a careful manager.

On the brighter side we can say that the standard of living of farmers today is the highest in our recollection," he added.

Mertz pointed to one of the many reasons for that condition.

The FHA has financed purchase of more than 1,000 farms in Pennsylvania, he said.

An average of 1,100 loans are made each year for livestock and farm equipment purchases. Pennsylvania's allocation of federal funds for this purpose is $2,000,000 for the fiscal year ending July 31, 1952.

In addition, said Mertz, federal funds are available for loans to aid farmers in improving their homes.

Actual operation of a farm will be studied August 22-24 by members of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association at the group's annual conference on farm management at Pennsylvania State college.

The farm will be studied for efficiency of operations in all enterprises. It will be analyzed critically for credit and financing and consideration will be given to possible future improvements and developments.

The bankers also will tour college farms as part of the three-day program.

Bob Jones University
Brass Quartet Will Be Heard On Saturday

Saturday evening at 7:45 o'clock promises to be unusual in many ways. On that evening, at Youth for Christ, the Bob Jones University Brass Quartet will conduct a special service at First Baptist church.

This group from "The World's Most Unusual University" presents a program which is unusual, yet appealing and inspirational. Many of the varied and interesting arrangements of the old hymns and other sacred works have been made especially for the Brass Quartet.

The individual members of this group are young people of unusual talent. James Meena, director of the group who will bring a brief Gospel message, is a graduate-assistant in the School of Fine Arts. Schultz received the Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in Bible at the commencement exercises in May, and Jackson and Garlock are enrolled in the School of Religion and are working for the Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in Bible. Each of these young men has participated in many of the university musical productions, radio programs, and university recordings of sacred and classical works released under the title, "Unusual Records."

Crackdown On State Relief Chiselers Near

By JOHN PAGET
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)
HARRISBURG, Aug. 2.—Legislation permitting a swift crackdown on relief chiselers has been endorsed by the administration. Relief chiselers also were proposed in the bill designed to minimize chiseling. The State Justice Department has reported that chiseling—as distinct from overpayments—amounts to more than a million dollars annually.

Plan Crackdown
The legislation sponsored by Rep. W. R. McMillen (R) Indiana, is aimed chiefly at allowing the State Department of Public Assistance to crack down on chiselers via summary proceedings before the minor judiciary. Under current law, suspected chiselers must be haled before a grand jury and if indicated taken into court.

Secretary of Public Assistance Eleanor G. Evans proposed the main points in the bill minimizing loopholes after studying DPA operation and a Justice Department report filed in April, 1950.

"Too often months go by before a so-called chiseler is tried," she said. "In the meantime he might still be receiving Public Assistance."

"By using Aldermen, Magistrates and Justices of the peace the case may be tried quickly and the chiseler will learn that it doesn't pay to defraud the state. Long delays before trial only increase disrespect for the law."

Weed Out Ineligibles
"I intend to do everything possible to rid the assistance rolls of ineligibles," Mrs. Evans said, "and the McMillen bill will help do that job."

The proposed legislation also would permit prompt removal of County Boards of Assistance members who do not attend meetings.

"Closer and more direct supervision of county boards should result in a more efficient and uniform administration of public assistance," said McMillen.

He proposed an investigative unit to aid in tracking down chiselers seeking to benefit under Pennsylvania's multi-million dollar relief program.

Will Check Visitors Work
"The new unit," explained McMillen, "also will check the work of the 2000 visitors throughout Pennsylvania and aid towards uniformity in eligibility of persons receiving assistance."

The provision is aimed at checking visitors, some of whom have been charged in the legislature with maintaining high case loads to forestall furloughs usually ordered when sufficient work does not exist.

The proposal also supports establishment of a new relief category—aid to disabled. The purpose is to make the commonwealth eligible for funds under a new federal law granting benefits to persons permanently and totally disabled.

Federal contributions now are limited to old age assistance and aid to dependent children. The commonwealth argues the contributions and underwrites blind pensions and general assistance.

Gov. John S. Fine has asked the legislature to set aside 135 million dollars for relief in the 1951-53 biennium.

To End Smoke Nuisance

Showcard grey paint simulates the smoke sometimes coming from the stack of the Jameson Memorial Hospital in this photograph, since the engineers are not firing sufficiently during hot weather, to show much smoke.

Thick, black smoke which periodically has irked neighbors of Jameson Memorial Hospital ever since it was opened in 1929 will be a thing of the past when the hospital's new 94-bed wing is completed some time next summer.

In place of the present coal-fired boilers, the hospital is installing three brand-new gas-fired boilers, with an oil auxiliary. The new boilers, being fabricated by a Waukegan, Ill., firm at a cost of $22,000, are expected to be installed in the sub-basement of the new wing early next month, although they won't be ready for use until construction is completed.

Hospital officials say the new boilers, in addition to eliminating dirt, will give more efficient and even heat.

A large fuel oil tank will be installed for emergency use in the event of gas shortages or stoppages.

It took about 1,650 tons of coal to fill the hospital's needs during the past year. The boilers do their heaviest work, naturally, during the winter but must be kept fired year-round to supply steam for sterilizing equipment.

Fuel bills during the past year ran $8,283. While the cost will rise with the switch to gas, Hospital Director J. T. Friedheim pointed out that the new boilers will be serving about 50 per cent more hospital than the old ones.

Annual Leadership Training Program To Occur On Friday

In the neighborhood of 125 Future Farmers of America youths from five counties in the local area will gather at Slippery Rock Friday for the annual Leadership Training Conference of Chapter Officers. An all-day meeting will take place, starting at 9 a.m. and concluding with a banquet in the evening, when the speaker will be Hon. Miles Horst, secretary of agriculture for Pennsylvania.

Registration will take place in the high school library from 9 to 9:30 a.m., in charge of the Slippery Rock chapter, after which the program will get under way.

The program for the morning session will include a discussion on preparation and execution of the chapter program of work, followed by picture taking and recreation. Before adjourning for luncheon in the college dining room, the different officers will be instructed on the duties of their respective offices.

Resuming in the afternoon, there will be a session devoted to planning an interesting chapter meeting, and another to parliamentary procedure, with recreation rounding out the afternoon.

The banquet will take place at 5 o'clock, with Ray Perkins, of Beaver Falls, president of the Beaver Falls Chapter, presiding as toastmaster.

The invocation will be given by Henderson McFate, chaplain of the Slippery Rock Chapter, and music will be led by Bob Rudolph, of Sandy Lake. Walter Hess, of Slippery Rock, will introduce the guests, and the speaker, will be introduced by Dale W. Houk, president of Slippery Rock State Teachers college.

During the banquet program, County Farmer degree certificates will be presented to a number of Lawrence county agriculture students who have qualified for the degree. The presentations will be made by Agriculture Supervisor James C. Fink.

The requirements for this degree are that one must have had vocational instruction, and developed a program, must have earned $100 and have $100 in a savings account in the bank, or have that amount invested in agriculture; must have held office in a chapter or taken part in two public school programs in the interest of vocational agriculture and the F.F.A.; must have been a member of a team representing the school in agriculture, must have had a satisfactory scholarship rating, and be elected to receive the degree by a majority vote of the F.F.A. association.

Those who will get the degree from this county are:

New Wilmington—Robert McFarland.

North Beaver—Hugh Bell, Fred McKinney, Dale Leslie, Robert McKinley, James Hasper and James Trotter.

Union—Frank Zappia, Frank Romeo and David Luptak.

The meetings will all be held in the laboratory high school of the college, except the luncheon and dinner meetings, which will be in the college dining room.

U.N. Hears Report Two Billion Yearly Needed For Aid

FLUSHING MEADOWS, N. Y., Aug. 2.—(INS)—Economic experts reported to the United Nations today that two billion dollars must be invested every year in underdeveloped countries to prevent hunger and preserve peace.

The report was given to the U. N. economic and social council currently holding its 13th session in Geneva.

It stressed that only $200,000,000 has been raised for easing economic distress in the underdeveloped lands and said that the International bank has loaned a mere $800,000,000 in eight years for development projects.

A similar note was struck by council president Hernan Santa Cruz of Chile in his speech at the opening session. He said the free world cannot win the battle against hunger and poverty until it mobilizes for the fight on the same scale that it prepares for collective action against aggression.

Neckties formerly known as cravats, first were worn extensively in Europe during the French revolution. The custom was borrowed from the Croats, or Cravats, in the 17th Century.

Leopard Skin Rug Is Seized

DENVER, Aug. 2.—(INS)—Denver federal customs officials have seized a $100,000 rug sent to a Pueblo family by their son now serving in Korea as a "routine matter."

Officials have refused to comment on the seizure other than they had not received any orders from "higher up" to take the rug, and that the Pueblo family could take the matter to the courts or consult further with the department.

Near International Issue

The rug, which threatens to become an international issue, was sent to Mr. and Mrs. Hugh V. Giltner in a duffle bag by their son, Sgt. Elverne H. Giltner, attached to the Eighth Army reconnaissance team somewhere in Korea.

The 18-by-eight foot rug is made of 43 matched leopard skins and is said to be valued at $100,000.

Korean Consul David Namdoong, when he learned the rug was in the United States, said it was a "priceless national treasure, if a price tag can be placed on the treasure."

He threatened that the rug is a former display piece from the residence of the late Queen Min, assassinated by the Japanese, shortly before the annexation of Korea.

The rug was transferred from Pueblo to Denver under heavy guard. It was seized under a 1930 federal statute stating that servicemen's souvenirs from abroad cannot be valued at more than $50 and enter the country duty free.

The average American was estimated to have eaten 146 pounds of meat in 1950, compared with an average of 126.2 pounds during the 1935-39 period.

Military Ballot Is Expected To Settle Wet-Dry Election

MONTROSE, Pa., Aug. 2.—(INS)—The outcome of the local option balloting in Forest township doesn't appear to bother taunoom operator Charles Kveragas today.

Although the "drys" hold a one-vote margin on whether to continue liquor sales, there is one military ballot to be counted tomorrow and that belongs to Kveragas' son, Andrew.

Under the liquor code, a tie vote continues the status of the political sub-division for an other four years.

The liquor issue ended with one military ballot out while the question of allowing continued beer sales carried 111 to 110.

Car Didn't Stop; Girl Passenger Asks For Damages

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—(INS)—A streetcar passenger asked $50,000 damages today because a Chicago Transit Authority conductor failed to call a stop.

The damage suit was filed on behalf of 16-year-old Jane Lyle McCaskey.

It charged that because the conductor failed to call out "her stop" as requested, Miss McCaskey got off five blocks beyond her destination the evening of March 13.

As a result, the suit alleges, the girl became lost in a sleet storm and was assaulted by an unknown man.

Damages of $25,000 are asked to cover medical bills, with another $25,000 compensation for Miss McCaskey's nervous condition.

Believe Wheat Crop Is Heavy

Good Weather Will Raise Yield Here

Although some wheat fields in Lawrence county did not turn out too good, due to wet spots in fields, on the whole, it is believed that this year's crop will exceed the state average of from 18 to 20 bushels per acre.

Excellent growing conditions have prevailed throughout the local area, and farmers have been reporting larger yields in many cases through selection of better seed varieties and the use of more fertilizer.

LOS ANGELES, (INS)— Picturesque camel caravans are rapidly becoming a thing of the past in the Sahara Desert. Dr. Benjamin E. Thomas, a U. C. L. A. geography professor, said that the camel is fast being replaced by air transportation and is holding its own only in local sandy areas.

Court House

Ten-Month Rap
Given WomanParole Violator
Sentenced Twice

Judge W. Walter Braham cracked down on Mrs. Sue Ross DeRobbio in sentence court Wednesday morning.

For parole violation and numbers, Mrs. DeRobbio got a total of 19 months in the Allegheny County Workhouse and fines totaling $550 and costs.

Sometime ago she was before the court on a numbers charge. She was fined $400 and costs and paroled for one year. The parole is still in effect and about a week ago State Police and County Detective Howard C. Klebe moved in for another raid.

"This is a matter of extreme importance," said Judge Braham. "You, directing his remarks at Mrs. DeRobbio, seem determined to continue in the numbers racket in spite of what the court thinks or does. This is not going to happen."

"You are in the racket, not because it has a fascination for you but because of the fascination of easy money. You want to get rich quickly."

"We'll go back to the point where you were paroled by this court for numbers. At that time you were fined $400 and costs. For the violation you are fined and additional $100 and costs which is the limit. In addition you will spend four months in the Allegheny County Workhouse."

"In the present numbers case you are fined $450 and costs and six months in the Allegheny County Workhouse, the second sentence to start upon the expiration of the first. In other words the two sentences run continuously. We mean business in this court."

Phyllis Burman was assessed the costs and given eight months in the county jail for the abandonment of an infant. Judge Braham indicated this sentence will be lightened later.

George Francis Bailey, up on five charges of uttering fraudulent checks was placed upon probation for one year upon condition that he pay the costs of the case and make restitution of $136.50.

Alvin S. Black was fined $100 and costs and thirty days in the county jail for driving while intoxicated. He will be released in three days upon the payment of the fine and costs.

U.S. Casualties
Over 80,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—(INS)—The Defense Department's weekly summary of American casualties in Korea gave a total of 80,079, an increase of 356 over last week.

The official summary, lagging about three weeks behind actual casualties in Korea, was the first to reflect the pronounced lull in fighting since the start of the Kaesong armistice negotiations.

The total number of American deaths increased by 67, from 13,340 to 13,407.

The average of American casualties since the start of the war has been about 1,500 a week. The increase this week was the smallest since the early days of the fighting.

The new total includes 11,933 killed in action; 55,898 wounded, of whom 1,357 have died; and 12,248 missing, of whom 117 are known to have died.

Still Flying Wounded Out

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—(INS)—Truce or no truce, the wounded are still being flown out of Korea for hospitalization, first in Japan, and then the United States.

Even after any possible cease fire, there will still be battle casualties, many of them to be flown home for further treatment and convalescence in the United States.

And whether the "flying hospitals" are on the short hop from Korea to Japan or the long haul from Japan home, a United States Air Force nurse in the mold of red-headed Capt. Jonita Bonham of Oklahoma City will be aboard the plane to care for our wounded men.

Need More Nurses

The corps is in the midst of a recruiting drive now, trying to enlist 2000 additional nurses in the approximate image of Capt. Bonham, who has earned the right to wear quite a lot of fruit salad on her plain, summer uniform.

She earned her ribbons the hard way too, including those denoting the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Purple Heart.

When she was in New York the other day, Capt. Bonham looked as good as new and pretty as a picture. It was difficult to realize that she had just been sprung from an Air Force Hospital after nine months' treatment. Or that a considerable part of that time was devoted to patching up her pretty face with plastic surgery.

"I keep looking at myself in the mirror and thinking I ought to know that woman," she said gaily.

One Of Finest In Korea

Capt. Bonham was one of the first ten flight nurses to reach Korea after the so-called police action began in June, 1950. For the next three months, she made one or two round-trip flights daily between Korea and Japan, evacuating wounded.

It had begun to be routine to the red-headed captain. The flight on the morning of Sept. 26 seemed just another flight when she boarded the plane at Ashiya, Japan, and found it loaded with the usual fresh troops on the way to the front and miscellaneous supplies.

But 800 yards off the end of the runway, the huge ship went out of control and crashed into the sea.

In the pandemonium that followed, Capt. Bonham managed to stay aloft. She spotted a small stay life raft, swam to it and told the 26 surviving G.I.'s (24 were killed) how to inflate it.

Badly Injured

For three hours, until rescue came, Capt. Bonham, despite a fractured skull, broken shoulder, broken wrist, three broken ribs and a split cheekbone, managed to kid and cajole the survivors, most of them as painfully injured as she.

Eventually the captain, who had bossed so many flying hospitals, came home in one, as a patient. The navy pinned its Flying Cross on her hospital gown, the first woman to earn this decoration in the Korean war.

"I was ashamed to complain when I was hurt," the captain said. "I've been in the military service eight years, first as an army nurse in World War II and now as an air force nurse in Korea. And I never heard a wounded man complain.

"They not only don't complain, but they are so grateful and so courteous. They thank you for taking care of them and for taking care of their buddy across the way, as if you were doing them a favor. Wonderful men!

Appreciative Of Anything

"And the little Marines! They were so appreciative of anything done for them when they were wounded. I say 'little' when I guess what I mean is 'young'. My, those Marines in Korea seemed so young, and brave.

"Or maybe they just seem younger in the Korean war because I'm getting older," said the 29-year-old nurse.

Capt. Bonham is going to train future air force nurses at Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Ala. And if any of the new recruits think the American soldier doesn't know what he's fighting for, the captain will set 'em right.

"I've been in two wars," the captain said crisply, "and I've never yet met an American soldier who didn't know darn well that he was fighting for."

State's Industrial Activity Shows Large Increase

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Aug. 2.—(INS)—A 10 per cent increase in June industrial activity compared with the half-way point in 1950 was reported today by the Business Research Bureau at Pennsylvania State College.

June activity was three points under the May level.

The bureau's index is based on coal production, industrial power and employ hours in manufacturing and using the years 1935-39 as a base of 100.

The June index was 216 compared with 194 in the comparable month a year ago.

The first six months of 1951 averaged 16 per cent higher than did the first half of 1950.

Industrial power sales, payrolls and steel production all showed new records for June, the bureau reported, and factory employment and man hours were better than last year.

Rembrandt's earliest painting is signed and dated 1627. Its subject is St. Paul in Prison.

Urge Removal Of Age Barriers For State Employment

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2.—(INS)—A management-labor committee of the Defense Manpower Commission has recommended that age barriers to employment be ended to avert any possible shortage of skilled labor that may arise in Pennsylvania and Delaware.

The committee, appointed by Labor Secretary Maurice J. Tobin, met yesterday at the office of Regional Manpower Director Carl B. Harr to study possible bottlenecks in future defense production in the two states.

It was indicated that manpower and not material shortage will be the biggest headache to industrial firms producing for defense in these two areas.

Surveys conducted by the defense manpower regional staff indicate there is no immediate labor shortage, except among highly-skilled workers, in any area of the two states.

Eleven of the United Nations have placed ships at the disposal of the Allies in Korea.

Ex-Communist Agent Testifies

Said She And Alger Hiss Agreed They Worked For Same Boss

By FRANK B. ALLEN
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—(INS)—Ex-Communist Agent Hede Massing told Senate investigators today that she recruited two State Department officials for Soviet espionage work and said she and Alger Hiss agreed they "worked for the same boss."

Mrs. Massing, appearing before the McCarran anti-subversives committee, said that the officials were Noel H. Field, then in the Western European Division of the department, and the late Lawrence Duggan, of the Latin American Division.

Field has since disappeared behind the iron curtain and Duggan fell to his death from a New York building.

The witness, ex-wife of Communist Gerhard Elser, said that the "recruiting" of the two officials occurred in late 1933 and early 1934.

She said that in getting them to work for her Communist "apparatus," she "made it quite clear" that she was a Communist, but added:

"Whether it was clear that this was espionage work, I am not certain—although I would assume it was."

Mrs. Massing testified her meeting with Hiss occurred in connection with a months-long effort to get Field to work for her espionage ring.

She explained that in the last stage of his "resistance" to her suggestions, Field told her: "I have come to the conclusion that it would be ridiculous to work with you when I could work with an old friend of mine who works with me in the State Department and is one of my own kind."

She said that when she asked who this old friend was, Field replied:

"I don't think you know him. His name is Alger Hiss."

Three Indiantown Gap Soldiers Are Facing Charges

HARRISBURG, Aug. 2.—(INS)—Three soldiers stationed at nearby Indiantown Gap were lodged in Dauphin county jail for court today on charges of criminally assaulting an 18-year-old girl.

State police said the trio grabbed the victim near her suburban Harrisburg home, forced her into a car and drove to an isolated country section where they attacked her eight times within a three-hour period.

The soldiers were drinking during the entire evening, police said.

The girl's presence of mind in remembering the license numbers of the car led to the arrest of the trio, police said.

The soldiers, all 20 years of age, were identified as Cpl. Thomas F. Jackson of Pleaster, Va.; Pvt. David P. Barnard of Findley, O.; and Pvt. Richard L. Goff of Van Buren, O.

Barnard, owner of the car, is married; military authorities said he and Goff entered the service several months ago, while Jackson is a veteran of the Korean war.

The victim was reported under the care of a physician.

Two Under Death Sentence Are Given Time Extension

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 2.—(INS)—Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, under sentence of death as atom spies, won a two-months' extension today to prepare the appeal from their sentence.

The extension, to October 15, was granted the Rosenbergs' attorney, Emanuel H. Bloch of New York, by U.S. Circuit Court Judge Charles E. Clark in New Haven.

The court also gave Bloch permission to enlarge the brief for the appeal from 50 to 125 pages.

Bloch disclosed that the Rosenbergs were visited yesterday in their death cells at Sing Sing Prison in Ossining, N.Y., by their two sons, eight and four years old. It was the first time the Rosenbergs had seen their children in a year, Bloch said.

Rosenberg, 32, and his 35-year-old wife were sentenced to death in New York on April 5 by Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman for transmitting U.S. atom secrets to Russia during and after World War Two.

Judge Clark also granted a two-months' extension to counsel for Morton Sobell, 34, under sentence of 30 years for betraying non-atomic military secrets.

American steel workers' wages are about three times that of British counterparts.

Three Under Death Sentence Are Given Time Extension

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 2.—(INS)—Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, under sentence of death as atom spies, won a two-months' extension today to prepare the appeal from their sentence.

The extension, to October 15, was granted the Rosenbergs' attorney, Emanuel H. Bloch of New York, by U.S. Circuit Court Judge Charles E. Clark in New Haven.

The court also gave Bloch permission to enlarge the brief for the appeal from 50 to 125 pages.

Bloch disclosed that the Rosenbergs were visited yesterday in their death cells at Sing Sing Prison in Ossining, N.Y., by their two sons, eight and four years old. It was the first time the Rosenbergs had seen their children in a year, Bloch said.

Rosenberg, 32, and his 35-year-old wife were sentenced to death in New York on April 5 by Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman for transmitting U.S. atom secrets to Russia during and after World War Two.

Judge Clark also granted a two-months' extension to counsel for Morton Sobell, 34, under sentence of 30 years for betraying non-atomic military secrets.

American steel workers' wages are about three times that of British counterparts.

HANEY'S ON THE PUBLIC SQUARE

In The Open

Above the head of the long reservoir the lone feeder stream feels its way in lazy meander through a patch of loamy bottomland redolent with the tangy breath of bergamot. Great clumps of ironwood tower above the tangled green jungles. The brook swings lazily in wide curves, undercutting these corners to form listless pools where flashing shiners turn in the sun, and tiny crayfish stir up muddy clouds as they scuttle around in headlong backward flight. On the bank above the stream a small colony of American bellflower displays stately waves of bright blue blossoms—sure sign that August is here again.

Butterflies danced in airy nonchalance along the waterway—"seeing only what is fair, sipping only what is sweet." The gorgeous blooms of the swamp milkweed served as colorful foil for a magnificent tiger swallowtail, and a cluster of tiny fellows with white wing bars found interest in the damp moss close above the water.

Found Convenient Log Seat
I found a convenient log seat near one of the pools and spent a pleasant half hour in the heart of that steamy fastness. The brook had fallen so low as to have lost its voice. The quiet in that remote dell was broken only by the hum of busy insects and the occasional rasping cry of locust filling the silence to an edge.

The first item of interest to come along was a hapless member of the Mayfly clan who had fallen into the stream. He came floating in at the head of the pool, kicking and struggling, but could not get off the water. Here surely was a tasty morsel for one of the shiners loafing in the shady depths.

Floated Insect Around
The sluggish current floated the insect slowly around the perimeter of the pool, then directly across the deepest portion. Each time the fly would struggle I could see the flashing of shiner sides beneath it, but strangely there came no strikes. Suddenly one of the little fish struck hard and the fly disappeared, only to appear again on the surface, apparently unharmed, a few seconds later.

For some reason those minnows did not want that Mayfly, and it finally came to water-logged mooring beside a floating leaf. Even the whirling beetles ignored it. They raced their motors and skidded around on the water in wide circles, but they seemed more intent on practicing for their regatta than in dining on one juicy Mayfly.

While I watched the Mayfly episode a thread-waisted wasp came to the side of the pool for a load of mud. Somewhere near by this busy mud-dauber was building a set of adobe apartments and here was her source of supply. She made several trips while I sat there, biting out a mouthful of the moist mud with each trip, and hustling off to plaster each load into place.

Most Interesting Visitor
The most interesting visitor of the afternoon came by while the sun was really bearing down on that weed-tangled valley. One of the day flying clear winged moths stopped in for a drink of water and entertained me for some time. Buzzing around just like a hummingbird, he would swing a wide circle above the pool, then suddenly drop for a swift sip after the manner of a swallow drinking from a wide pond.

At least a half dozen times the moth made that peculiar dive. Each time the whole shiner population of the pool exploded in a smashing strike, but the clearing was always up and away. In deep ponds harboring bigger and more hungry fish, drinking in this manner could be dangerous business.

There were several colonies of sweet flag in this swampy bottomland. I crushed the leaves to enjoy the distinctive aroma of this "calamus root," which is said to have medical value as a digestant. A red bodied dragonfly had adopted each colony, finding vantage points on the tall leaves from which to course the airlines for luncheon items.

Now that August is here again the fret and hurry of the outdoor season are over. Nature dreams and meditates on the threshold of Autumn. For the most part the dog days will be tranquil days.

American Forces In Europe Will Keep Their Individuality

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—(INS)—Gen. Eisenhower's chief of staff assured senators Wednesday that there is no plan to make U. S. troops a part of a solidified European army in which men of different nationalities would wear the same uniform.

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther reportedly told the Senate foreign relations and armed services committee that American forces would keep their individuality, wear their own uniforms and be under U. S. commanders.

Chairman Connally (D) Tex. told newsmen after the closed hearing that he himself brought up the question of whether American GIs would be made a part of the single integrated European force which Gruenther reportedly said Eisenhower favors.

Gruenther testified that the proposal to spread the request 6.3 billion dollar foreign aid program over two years would reduce the number of divisions available to Eisenhower to about one-fourth.

Connally, in a statement on the general's testimony, quoted Gruenther as saying that any postponement of the new arms aid request would "simply mean delay in equipping divisions."

PLANE GUARDS GAS

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — New England's first natural gas pipeline, 500 miles long, will be patrolled by a specially-equipped plane to assure dependable gas service.

Mass Deportations In Hungary Charged

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—(INS)—Secretary of State Acheson charged today that many of the victims of mass deportation in Hungary "face slow but inevitable death by exhaustion, disease, forced labor or further deportation."

Acheson also disclosed that the U. S. is attempting to single out the individual Hungarian officials responsible for these and other "inhuman practices" in that country.

The secretary told a news conference that the U. S. will "publicly stigmatize" the responsible officials and make their acts "fully known."

Acheson declared: "The uncivilized conduct of the Hungarian government has aroused profound indignation throughout the world."

Acheson said he agrees fully with President Truman's condemnation of the deportation as a violation of peace treaty provisions.

He added: "It is my understanding that the government of the United Kingdom and the government of France feel equally strongly about this matter."

Illegal Entry By Thousands Of Chinese In Philippines

By CARLOS A. ANGELES
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

MANILA — (INS) — Scores of thousands of Chinese nationals — 90 per cent of whom are potential Reds — have infiltrated into the Philippines.

As early as 1949 Acting Secretary of Foreign Affairs Felino asserted that the degree of infiltration was daily mounting, expressing the belief that there already were close to half a million Chinese residents in the islands.

The Chinese embassy in Manila in 1949 officially tallied 140,000 Chinese nationals registered with the embassy. An embassy informant told International News Service that the figure remains unchanged.

The difference in number between the legal and illegal Chinese residents is alarmingly high, and authoritative sources believe that the mass smuggling of Chinese into the islands dwarfs any of the previously reported alien smugglings.

The area of infiltration is heavy along the eastern coast of Luzon and the coastline fronts the vast Pacific Ocean.

The coastline itself is irregular, with numerous coves and natural harbors. From the coast the Sierrita Madre mountain range slopes inlandwards, offering an instant haven for the human contraband.

Night Landings
Here surreptitious landings from tramp steamers, freighters and past PT boats are carried out. Actually stopovers are effected at any of the several clusters of islets fringing the coast to confuse patrol boats who are always on the lookout for them.

Landings are usually made at night, while Filipino agents in canoes with the alien smuggling leaders stand ready to lead the newly arrived immigrants to Huk hideouts in the Sierras.

Immigration officials have been frantically calling for more Catangas (patrol boats) to aid them in plugging out the ingress of aliens into the Philippines, who they assert are communists, or potential communists.

"The whole ring in the Philippines is linked with hard-up Chinese rather than communists or nationalists. There is no discrimination along these lines," an intelligence officer pointed out.

"But I believe that the flow of smuggled Chinese includes a large number of communist agents, although all aliens in our custody swear allegiance to the Nationalists. They are well aware that communism is not welcome in the Philippines."

The numbers of apprehended Chinese illegal immigrants are pitifully few compared to the thousands believed to be hiding in the Sierras, or might have even gone down to towns and cities where they are least suspected.

SOUTHERN BELLE

BURLINGTON, N. C. — North Carolina's new first lady of beauty is 19 year old Lee Long Ogburn who was crowned the State's Queen for 1951. Lee outdid 37 other beautiful girls from all parts of North Carolina to win the trip to Atlantic City, N. J., for the Miss America pageant in September. Above, the lovely Miss charms the scene atop a diving board.

Davis' Return After Long Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Ivor V. Davis of Wallace avenue have returned home after a six week tour of the southwest, far west and Alaska.

Leaving New Castle they drove through the southwest and Mexico, on to southern California. From there they drove to Vancouver, B. C., where they boarded a ship for the inside passage trip to Skagway, Alaska. Leaving Skagway they took a train to Whitehorse and the Yukon district and also visited the glacial area of Alaska.

In Skagway they met a Mrs. Wasson, who many years ago was a New Castle resident. Her name then was Miss Reese and she resided on Reynolds street.

Kiwanis Hears College Man

Donald L. Barbe
Addresses Club

Prof. Donald F. Barbe, head of the dramatics and speech department at Westminster college, addressed members of the New Castle Kiwanis club at their weekly luncheon meeting in The Castleton, Wednesday noon, when he outlined the aims of his department.

He stated that even when students get to college, a great many of them have difficulty getting on their feet and speaking for even one minute. Many jobs which will be open to them after graduation depend on their ability to express themselves. It is with this aim in view that the course is outlined.

Schools Not Sold
Dramatics and radio speaking are also taught, not with the idea of turning out graduates who will follow this line of endeavor, although some already have. Many colleges and universities are still not sold on the importance of developing this art.

Speech correction is also taught. This is the correction of speech impediments, and there is a field here for students, he stated, as at least 500 teachers, trained along this line are needed in the state of Pennsylvania, he stated. Prof. Barbe estimated that there are 500 children in the city of New Castle, with speech impediments. The school system owes it to these children to train them how to overcome these difficulties.

Prof. Barbe stated that he spends a portion of each week at Pittsburgh Xenia Seminary, at Pittsburgh, where young ministers are in training, and he stated that out of all the students enrolled there, less than ten are what might be termed good speakers. This in spite of the fact that they are training for a livelihood which requires this ability above all others.

Develops Personality

Part of speech training is also the development of personality, he stated. Personalities should be positive, not negative. One likes to be around a good conversationalist, but few people possess this quality.

One way in which a person can be brought to realize his own shortcomings as a speaker is to

In the dramatic department, four major plays are put on by Westminster college students each year, in addition to many one-act plays. The school has a speakers bureau and furnishes speakers. The college also has an excellent debate team, one which has brought honor to the school in the past few years, he stated. All these people are available for programs.

In conclusion, he advised that all college students take at least one year of such a course as he is head of, and to put some serious work into it.

Consider Space Platform 1,000 Miles Above Earth

By JACK GEIGER
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—A former German rocket expert now employed by the U. S. Army believes American scientists would have at least an outside chance for success if they started work today on a space platform that would circle the earth indefinitely.

Such a platform—one thousand miles or more up—could serve, for example, as an atom-bomb launching site or a worldwide television relay station.

Research Under Way

The idea is not a new one—nor is it just a dream. Two years ago, A Defense Department report hinted that research was under way on an "earth satellite vehicle program."

Dr. Wehrner Von Braun, the German expert, already has drawn up a schematic design for such a platform in a forthcoming book on "space medicine" to be published by the University of Illinois press.

The proposed platform looks like a giant bicycle wheel lying on its side in space. Spokes run from the hollow rim to a huge steam boiler and electrical generating unit at the hub. A huge mirror is mounted vertically to focus the sun's rays on the boiler.

A thousand miles up, humans would be weightless because the earth's gravitational pull is so small. So the platform would revolve slowly—and centrifugal force would provide synthetic gravity for the crew, housed in the hollow rim.

The platform would have to be hauled into space in sections by three-stage rockets—and there, the book's authors indicate, the real problems begin.

For their description of the rigors of rocket flight makes a rush-hour subway ride in a midsummer heat wave seem delightful by comparison.

What Passenger Faces

This, they say, is what the prospective rocket passenger faces:

On the first leg of the trip he will travel straight up at 450,000 miles per hour. Most of that time he'll be unconscious.

Friction with the earth's atmosphere will heat the rocket's metal skin to 1,112 degrees Fahrenheit, which may make it stuffy inside.

And then, out in space, the gravity problem will begin again. The passenger will be weightless. A warm cloud will surround his body and his breath will hang motionless in front of him. His clothes will bag peculiarly. His hair will stand on end—because it, too, will be weightless.

Major Dangers

For those who feel they have already suffered worse on some crowded streetcar, there are other hazards. A tiny meteor the size of a BB pellet could penetrate the ship's wall and cause cabin pressure to drop.

Body Of Pittsburgh Missing Scoutmaster Is Found At Lake

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 2.—(INS)—The case of a missing Pittsburgh scoutmaster and one of his scouts was marked "closed" today when Mrs. Cecil S. Kelley said she had received word that her son's body had been found.

Scoutmaster Cecil R. Kelley, 25, and a Boy Scout, Victor Smith, 15, both of Pittsburgh, disappeared July 21 during a windstorm on Lake Erie. The two had been canoe riding.

Young Smith's body was recovered from the lake last Thursday, but Kelley's body was not found until yesterday.

Mrs. Kelley said she had been notified her son's body washed up on shore at the foot of a steep cliff near Barcelona, N. Y.

Auto Narrowly Avoids Plunge Into Neshannock Creek

Driving his car down Croton avenue hill Wednesday evening at 8:00, Basil Carozola, 1011 Croton avenue, was taken ill and apparently lost consciousness. Driverless, the automobile went on down the hill.

Missing the only house on the Neshannock creek side of Croton avenue by 30 feet, the run-away car caromed off a tree on the river bank. The car hit the tree just enough and at the right angle to prevent its plunging into the Neshannock. It was halted approximately 100 feet from where it first went upon the sidewalk by hitting another tree. The car rested one and one half feet from the creek bank's edge.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Gallagher, 518 Croton avenue, went to Mr. and Mrs. Carozola's assistance. The accident happened in front of the Gallagher home.

Mr. Carozola stated he was unhurt, just shaken after hitting the tree. He further stated he did not know what happened, he didn't remember hitting the tree.

People living in the neighborhood who saw the accident tell of a woman and two little girls that had passed the spot where the car crossed the sidewalk a few short seconds before.

The college degree as a university destination originated at Bologna and Paris during the 12th Century and the titles "master" and "doctor" at first signified nothing more than a license to teach.

Today's Fashion Flash

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—(INS)—The male vote notwithstanding, ladies' dresses will be slightly longer next season.

This is the word that trickled into New York today: 12 to 13 inches from the floor is the high-fashion length.

The downward move, sponsored by trend-maker Christian Dior, came about after early predictors had stressed a probable lady-like hike in hemlines.

According to experts, this drop from last spring's 14-inch average length came about because of the return to elegance—to an almost quaint empire look—in women's clothes for '51.

Also in the empire mood will be a rise in the bust line of dressy frocks, and a beltless princess silhouette at the waist.

School Reunion
Attracts ManyFormer School Mates
Relive Earlier Days

School sessions were under way at Mahoning school for a few hours Wednesday, but the only pupils answering roll call were boys and girls of yesterday who with lunch under arm and many times barefoot, wended their way to the little two room and later four room building.

The occasion was the twenty-first annual Mahoning school alumni reunion which attracted nearly 100 former school mates who turned time back more than half a century to relive childhood days when the rod was a most important part of their elementary education.

Classes opened in the Mahoning school auditorium with alumni president Edward M. Johnson occupying the principal's chair while William McGaughey sat near by recording the annual gathering of the Mahoning school pupils of the late 1890's. Mrs. Beatrice Day opened the assemblage with a Scripture reading, followed by the prayer offered by William McGaughey and the praying of the Lord's prayer by the group.

Mr. McGaughey read communications from former pupils who due to long distances were unable to be present. Those included: Clara Sample Neal of Grass Valley, Calif.; Percy Jones of Oak Park, Ill.; Oscar Witherspoon of Norfolk, Va.; Jim Coates of Constantine, Mich.; Mary Eichbaum Simpson of Bristol, Tenn.; Bessie Witherspoon and Catherine Smith McCullough.

A memorial service was conducted by Oliver H. Sample of Pittsburgh in which he recited several appropriate poems dedicated to those who passed away in the last year. Five former school members died in that time.

The officers were renamed to serve another year, these being: president, Edward M. Johnson; vice president, Ellis Howard; secretary, William McGaughey; and treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Pherson. Committees: reunion, Ruth Syling, Ethel Greer and Ellis Howard; dinner, Helen Adams, Bessie Coates Pitzer and Jim Bailey.

Decision was made to change the reunion date from the first Wednesday of August until the first Saturday of August, starting next year. The change was made in order that more could attend the event, due to many not working on Saturday.

Following the business period, the meeting was thrown open for remarks by the members. Each former school member rose, gave his or her name and then reminisced of former school days. Tears flowed freely as olden days were recalled by the former school mates. One of the older members present was Edward Scanlon who has reached the 82 year mark.

Following the meeting at Mahoning school, the group marched across the street to the Mahoning Methodist church where a dinner of ham, scalloped potatoes and numerous other delectable items were served by members of the Davis Bible class of that church. A song fest followed with Mrs. Alice McClure presiding at the piano. An excellent talk was given to the large group by Rev. Loy C. Gobrecht of Ellwood City. Members of the former school group also were heard during the period.

With "God Be With You 'Till We Meet Again" ringing in their ears, the members departed hoping that they all would be able to meet again next year under the same favorable circumstances.

Simpson Picnic

Enjoyed Wednesday

With perfect picnic weather on hand, the members of the Simpson Methodist Sunday school, enjoyed one of its most outstanding picnics in recent years, Wednesday at the Metz cottage along the Neshannock creek.

The event got under way early in the afternoon, with the boys and girls enjoying swimming and other games. At approximately 7 o'clock, dinner call was sounded and the group numbering nearly 45 assembled at the beautifully spread tables. Rev. G. Edward Shaffer, the pastor offered the invocation.

The remainder of the evening was spent informally with the younger members swimming and playing horseshoes while the older ones spent the time in chatting. Aiding Mrs. William Metz in serving were: Mrs. Alys McCormick, Mrs. Robert Haigler and Mrs. Isaac Liwellyn.

Checker Contest

Winners Announced

Junior checker contest of the Mahoning playground was held Wednesday afternoon. Close competition caused the youngsters to play for over two hours in the elimination contests.

Two players were left at the end of the period. Anna May Borair won the first prize blue ribbon. She won six straight games in the finals.

Helen Lepore came in second. Special event at the Mahoning playground next week will be the annual "Bum's Day." Each boy and girl will vie with each other to see who can look the worst.

Name Committees

For Joint Picnic

Committees for the joint picnic of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen No. 955 and their families with the Mabel Wilson Lodge No. 567, which will be held at Cascade Park, August 14, were named today.

The committee consists of G. G. Emerick, William Erk, Mrs. Joseph Doone, Mrs. Rose Mullen, Mrs. Ed Johnson, Mrs. Mary E. Oberlin, Mrs. T. J. LaRock.

The twelve basket lunch will take place at 6 p.m. in shelter No. one, two, three and four. The annual outing is expected to attract a large group.

The Wampum team marched off the field with a had-won 5-4 win.

Hitting stars for the Mahoning team were: Don Conti, Tony De-prospiero and Runyon.

The game was an excellently played one for both teams and it is hoped that a similar contest can be arranged.

Four-H Club

Mr. Herman Happy Stitches, Mt. Hermon Happy Stitches 4-H Club met for their last meeting at the Mt. Hermon church basement Monday.

Completing skirts and finishing touches on their dresses was the work of the afternoon. Business included the planning for the 4-H picnic at Grove City Park.

Each member had instructions on 4-H club round-up to be held August 9. Skirts and dresses are to be shown and modelled on each individual girl. This meeting is a morning and afternoon program. All members are invited.

Phoebe Jean Dean has been enlisted from this club to attend Club Week at State College August 13-16.

There were 18 members present. The meeting was under the direction of Miss Kelly Howe.

North Carolina has 120 golf courses.

End Tariff Concessions To
All Communist Powers

By GEORGE DURNO

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—(INS)

President Truman on Wednesday ordered an end to tariff concessions on goods imported into the U. S. from Russia, Red China and all countries occupied by the two communist powers.

The White House said that Mr. Truman signed a proclamation to this effect to bring U. S. tariff regulations into conformity with provisions of the reciprocal trade act.

Earlier, Secretary of State Acheson announced that the U. S. will take further action shortly to punish communist Czechoslovakia for the imprisonment of American newsman William N. Oatis on trumped-up espionage charges.

Cancel Czech Concessions
The U. S. cancelled tariff concessions to the Czechs late Tuesday and Acheson said it was merely the first of a series of steps being mapped in retaliation for Oatis' treatment by the communist regime.

He hinted that additional measures will probably be even more drastic than the trade benefit cancellation. Acheson told a news conference that he cannot talk freely about the additional actions because that would not be in Oatis' interest.

that a nation with whom the United States has such an agreement gets the benefit of all tariff reductions in agreements with other countries.

Countries Not Named

While the Presidential proclamation did not name any specific countries, the White House said they included Russia, Red China, all of the Soviet satellites with the exception of Yugoslavia, and Red-occupied North Korea.

As the government moved against communism on the economic front, the House foreign affairs committee began consideration of nearly two score resolutions condemning the Czech government for its action against Oatis.

Acheson emphasized that the Oatis case is a matter of the utmost importance to the American government and the American people.

He added that the department has been unable to get a satisfactory response from the satellite government to its protests in the case. He said that U. S. diplomats have been denied opportunity to talk with Oatis since his arrest.

During the past year the Military Air Transport Service carried 400,000 passengers and 60,000 tons of cargo.

Smoke Control Action Is Being Planned In City

H. B. LAMMERS

Definite information upon smoke control action will be had here Wednesday night, August 8.

On that night, H. B. Lammers, chairman of the Coal Producers' Committee of Smoke Abatement, of Cincinnati, O., will address the meeting of the Air Purification committee of the Greater New Castle Association.

Attending the committee meeting will be Chairman David H. Long, Assistant Chairman Chester C. Sweezy, members of the committee, directors of the GNCA and any citizen who is interested in the work. The meeting will be in The Castleton hotel.

Smoke Control Specialist
Mr. Lammers is an expert in smoke abatement practices. For twenty three years he has dealt with fuels and their combustion. For seventeen years he has taught stationery engineering and combustion at the Ohio Mechanics' Institute in Cincinnati and is the author of several articles on combustion.

He is a member of the Cincinnati Engineering society and of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. He has participated in the activities of the National Association of Power Engineers and has a first class operating engineer's license. He is also a registered professional engineer in Ohio.

Mr. Lammers has made extensive surveys in smoke control work over the United States and Canada and is recognized as an expert in his field.

Smoke control has been discussed here for many years. On August 8, for the first time, some factual information upon how to proceed will be given by Mr. Lammers. The GNCA urges that a crowd be present for this address.

Many Topics Found In Library Books

Want to explore a jungle? Discover amazing facts about migrant butterflies? Learn about country life? A trip to the Public Library will reward you with these details and thousands more. Well illustrated interestingly written books of nature are a natural for midsummer reading.

"Edge of the Jungle" by William Beebe never seems to lose its flavor. Beebe's unusual adventures in exploring British Guiana insure several hours of enjoyment.

Fabre's "Insect World" and "Insects in Your Life" will please even the confirmed insect hater. Country life is presented in a humorous way by George S. Perry in his "Tale of a Foolish Farmer" "Enchanted Acre" by Gove Hambidge and "Country Wife" by Dorothy Van Doren are also enjoyable.

If you want to fascinate the youngsters to the quieting point try reading aloud to them. Among the nature books they will enjoy, are "Whales" and "Owls," both by Herbert. Zim, and Webb's "Song of the Seasons." For this purpose, for both parents and child Kenneth Grahame's "Wind in the Willows," is a perennial delight. These and many others are all in your Public Library. Good reading to you.

MAN WINS RELEASE

WASHINGTON, Ind.—A local man got police to pick him up when he decided he was too drunk to stay at home peacefully, but the state penal farm sentence he got when he pleaded guilty to public intoxication was too much. He appealed. Circuit Judge Philip D. Waller released him, deciding if he had been drunk it was in his own home and not in public.

Their First Teachers

Young children learn a great deal by themselves. They don't have to have lessons in walking. They learn motor skills and all sorts of other things by watching other children and through experimenting. But there's a place for teaching, too. And that's where we parents come in.

Good teaching at this level is an art just as it is later. There's a time for telling, a time for showing. But there's also a time for keeping quiet, for keeping hands off, for patience and for calmness. Look at 11-month-old Terry, she learned on her own to let herhelf down off the bed feet first so that she wouldn't get hurt. At one stage, her dad had moved her around into the right position. That helped a lot in the learning. But he didn't have to talk about it or even repeat his help.

Giving a hand when a youngster gets a pull-toy caught can be good teaching or poor. If he's helped to see how he can back up and get it out himself he's learned to take care of one of his own problems. If Mother or Dad step in and do the untangling themselves, he's likely to learn merely to call for help by fussing or yelling.

In general, children learn best in an informal way rather than through anything that smacks of a lesson. It's the standing by, the encouragement, the helping hand at the strategic moment that's good teaching.

Report A-Bomb Materials Production At New High

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
By DARRRELL GARWOOD
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 — The atomic energy commission revealed today that it has produced substantial quantities of hydrogen super-explosive while pushing production of A-bomb materials to a new high.

The disclosure raised the possibility that one or more of the city-destroying H-bombs can be built before completion of the 900-million dollar Savannah River, S. C., plant which is to take over their manufacture.

Supplies Increased
The AEC's tenth semi-annual report to congress said it "increased its supplies of raw materials and its output of fissionable materials during the first six months of 1951 while pushing ahead with a very large expansion of production capacity."

The report continued: "Construction and equipment accounted for nearly three-fourths of the more than two billion dollars appropriated for fiscal 1951."

Work on nuclear reactors, to power submarines made progress. Development of reactors to propel military aircraft also advanced.

"An experimental power plant designed to provide information of fuel re-production and to produce some electricity was nearing completion at the reactor testing station in Idaho."

The disclosure concerning hydrogen super-explosive came indirectly in describing an experiment in which the Argonne National Laboratory at Chicago froze helium 3 under pressure at 457 degrees below zero Fahrenheit — near absolute zero.

Work Made Possible
The AEC said: "Argonne's work was made possible because the laboratory has small quantities of helium 3 as a decay product of radioactive hydrogen (tritium, the super-explosive) made in atomic piles."

The report elsewhere listed helium 3 among the "stable isotopes" which, it said, are now available in "quantities for research and industrial purposes."

Experts pointed out that quantities of helium 3 as a decay product of tritium would mean much larger quantities of the latter, since the decay occurs slowly and the first significant amounts of tritium were produced only two years ago.

Tritium has a so-called "half life" of twelve years, which means that half of a given amount will turn to helium 3 in the course of twelve years.

The commission said that helium 3 was still scarce at the time of the Argonne experiment, which was achieved with a quantity so small that "solidification was carried out in tubing about the thickness of a human hair."

However, the amount of tritium needed for an H-bomb has been estimated at only one-half pound to one or two pounds. The super-explosive is needed to assist a triggering A-bomb in creating the enormous temperature needed to explode ordinary heavy hydrogen.

The commission reported actual status of major projects on June 20 as follows:

1. The experimental power plant at Arco was "being assembled." The commission said it would take "some time" to determine results.

2. Designs for the first atomic submarine motor were ready and certain buildings connected with its construction had been completed.

3. The Savannah river H-bomb plant had hired 6,500 construction workers out of an expected peak total of 35,000. At the "Little Oak Ridge" being built at Paducah, Ky., 1,600 out of an expected 12,000 construction workers were on the job.

Medal Of Honor Is Awarded

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 — (INS) — President Truman on Wednesday awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor to First Lt. Henry Alfred Commiskey, of Hattiesburg, Miss., first marine to win the highest award for heroism in Korea.

The ceremony took place in the White House rose garden and was attended by high Defense Department and marine officials and members of Lt. Commiskey's family, including his brother, M/Sgt. M. J. Commiskey, 28, who was wounded in Korea while serving with the 187th Airborne Infantry.

Lt. Commiskey, 24, won the medal of honor "for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty" in leading a charge up a hill last September near Yongdung and killing seven enemy soldiers in hand to hand combat.

Commiskey is now stationed at the marine barracks at Lake Denmark, Dover, N.J.

LAS VEGAS, Nev., August 2 — (INS) — Mrs. Evelyn Blakely Black has obtained an uncontested divorce from Dr. Frank J. Black, noted orchestra leader, on charges of mental cruelty.

DAUGHTER IS BORN
HOLLYWOOD, August 2 — (INS) — Anthony Dexter, who held numerous girls in his arms while portraying Rudolph Valentino on the screen, had a new bundle of pulchritude to walk the floor with today.

His wife, stage actress Marjorie Todd, gave birth to a 5 pound, 15 ounce daughter yesterday at Physicians and Surgeons Hospital. Both mother and daughter, as yet unnamed, are doing fine.

Private ... First Class!

Not so very long ago, Jim was a smiling high-school kid who'd never been more than a hundred miles from home.

Now he's a trained member of a great team... ready, willing and able to travel to the ends of the earth to protect family and country!

Jim's proud of his outfit, proud of his uniform, and so very proud of that first stripe that proclaims his promotion to Private First Class. It's only natural that he wants Dad and Mom to know about it.

And that's just one way in which the telephone... that vital link between training camp and home... helps keep high the spirits of the men in our fighting forces.

Telephone equipment is harder to get these days. But if we've gone all-out in assigning equipment to military and naval camps and stations, we think you'll understand.

Particularly if Jim is your Jim.

The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania

Ma Newc Has Her Say:

Congratulations to Miss Ann Paton of Mt. Jackson school staff on her national "Most Promising Teacher" award.

Glad science has taken a hand in the age old argument of beauty versus intelligence. . . . Notice the beautiful fashion models scored better in intelligence tests than the average college student.

The American composers of "serious" music are finally coming into their own. . . . More and more operas are being written in English and therefore sung in English. . . . Those of you who can speak more than one language know it is exceedingly difficult to translate music from one language into English, retain the beauty and still make sense. . . . Pa and I have long enjoyed music but now it will be more enjoyable. . . . We will be able to understand more of the words.

Some fashion magazines and writers tell us that the hemline will be below the calf of the leg this year. . . . Others tell us it is between the calf and the knee. . . . A check with the better dress stores in New Castle reveals they are both right. . . . Hemlines will be from 12 to 14 inches from the floor this year. . . . The exact line is an individual preference. The smartest color is still black with grey running a close second. . . . Bright shades are next and browns are also runs.

Read recently that the average driver, age 50 years, . . . drives his car a distance four times greater than the youth of 20 and with fewer accidents. . . . One example of the erratic driving of the younger generation happened to me at dusk two weeks ago. . . . Out driving with my sister-in-law and the baby . . . fuse on the parking lights blew out and pulled into a gasoline station on new 422 to get another fuse. . . . Had complied with all rules and regulations before turning into station but had no sooner turned in than a "hot rod" screamed around the building and screeched to a stop a few feet from my car. . . . While the young fellow behind the wheel looked at me sheepishly, a second "hot rod" screeched out of no where and managed to stop three inches from my rear bumper. . . . It seems that because I was a woman driver they were going to give me a scare. . . . The scare into near oblivion was too close for comfort.

Have discovered that if I turn up the collar and open out the French cuffs on Pa's shirts they last much longer. . . . He gets more wear out of them and they look better. . . . Collar and cuffs are easier to iron.

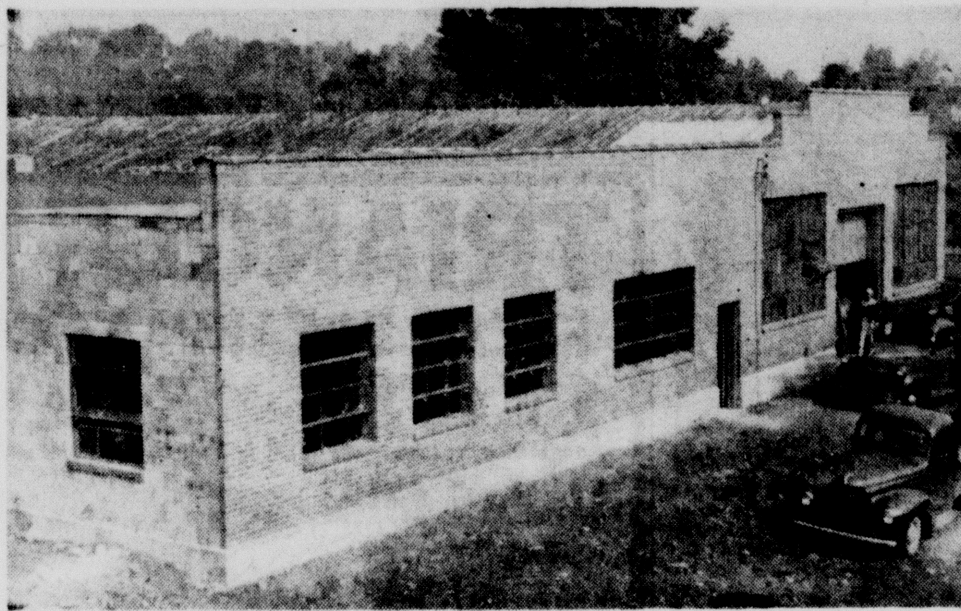

Pa tells me there is a terrific new men's deodorant on the market now. . . . very very masculine. . . . Glad to hear it. . . . Perhaps more men will quit thinking underarm deodorant is strictly feminine. . . . If they do, they will be a lot nicer to be around these hot days.

Speaking of hot days. . . . One way I have discovered to keep cool, besides going swimming, is . . . a bath in tepid water with favorite toilet water sprinkled in it. . . . pat body dry. . . . rub more of the same toilet water on skin and dust with bath powder containing the same fragrance. . . . dress in clean crisp clothing. . . . Feel so good and having such a good time forget all about the heat. . . . It works.

A very young friend of mine asked what the smart young lady of ten to thirteen years of age will wear this fall. . . . Asked some of the local shops catering to that particular age group. . . . Color range from plaid to solid colors of navy blue and wine. Material will be cottons, corduroys and wools. . . . Hemlines for the young ladies will be somewhat shorter than last year. . . . For ages 10 to 11 they will be a little below the knee. . . . Age 12 and 13 perhaps a little longer. . . . fairly up to how the mother and daughter feel about it. . . . I hope this helps the young ladies.

No occupational deaths have been reported among America's 2,000 uranium miners.

New City Streets Dept. Building

City's new streets' department building, constructed at an approximate cost of $40,000, is ready for occupancy, according to city officials. It is located at Shenango and Bridge streets. The structure fronts on Shenango street. It has a front of brick veneer. It occupies 990 square feet of ground. The building will be surrounded by a six foot high wire fence.

The new department will permit the city to centralize street department activities. It will also contain the motor repair shop and blacksmith shop.

One portion of the structure, a steel building was moved from Deshon village. The rest of the structure is of concrete block.

The boiler room, and offices are located in the center of the building. The city some time ago sold the city's street department building at Grove street for $15,000. It also sold the Croton Avenue Motor Repair shop building, and also the Taylor street building used by the Street department for $8,000.

New Addition To Legion Home Nears Completion

Work is nearly completed on the new addition to the Legion Home, on North Jefferson street, where an auditorium, 70 by 100 feet, is being built.

Only a few more days work on the lighting arrangements remains before the building will be ready for occupancy.

The auditorium will have a capacity of over 500 persons and will be available for public use, in addition to being used to good advantage by the post.

Although the dam that atomic scientists built in the Ottawa river failed, heavers succeeded in building a watertight structure, and keeping it in good repair.

Says Brunette Is Woman Who Really Traps Men

By MARGARET BREWER
(L.N.S. Staff Correspondent)

ATLANTA, Aug. 2.—A former American woman spy today declared that it is the beautiful but "dumb" brunette—not the blonde—who really traps men.

And, she added, it is women's gift of gab that makes them better suited than men for close-mouthed work.

Attractive Claire Phillips, in Atlanta to back a movie about her two-year espionage campaign against the Japanese in the Philippines during World War Two, explained.

"Men Suspect Blondes"

"Men suspect blondes and they expect them to be scatterbrained. The pretty, innocent-looking brunette is the one who learns their secrets."

At least that is what happened in her case. Dark-haired Mrs. Phillips, who resembles movie actress Jennifer Jones, captured the fancy of a Japanese admiral and was instrumental in getting his flotilla sunk.

She entranced him with a fan dance at the swank Club Tsubaki Camellia, which she operated as a front for her espionage activities after her husband died in the Bataan death march.

Code Name "High Pockets"

The former volunteer spy now the code name "high pockets" by secreting messages in her brassiere.

Later, Mrs. Phillips was reported by a Russian girl and imprisoned in Fort Santiago. She was sentenced to death and barely escaped a Japanese firing squad when the Americans re-entered Manila.

It was during her imprisonment that Mrs. Phillips noticed the endurance of women. She recalled: "Women could stand torture better than men. Perhaps it is because they can take better and readily think up—and remember to the last detail—stories to mislead their captors. Many of the men went to pieces and told conflicting stories."

Joe Adonis Will Face Charge Of Senate Contempt

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 2.—(INS)—Joe Adonis, convicted syndicate gambler serving a 2 to 3 year prison sentence, agreed today to appear in federal court in New York for arraignment on a charge of contempt of the U. S. Senate.

Deputy Attorney General Eugene Urbaniak announced that Adonis had signed a waiver to be taken out of the state and returned later to the New Jersey state prison at Trenton.

He added the prisoner will be taken to New York federal court next Wednesday to be arraigned. Late Tuesday, Adonis refused to sign such a waiver until he had conferred with his lawyer, John E. Selsor, of Hackensack.

Federal court authorities in New York are expected to issue a new writ of removal to obtain the appearance of Adonis there next Wednesday.

Further Action In Oatis Case Is Indicated

By GEORGE DURNO
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Secretary of State Acheson indicated that further punitive U.S. action against Czechoslovakia is in prospect because of the jailing of American Newsmen William N. Oatis.

Acheson told a new conference he wished he could talk freely about this additional action, but he pointed out it would not be in Oatis' interest to do so.

The U.S. yesterday cancelled out trade-agreement tariff concessions to Czechoslovakia and President Truman today signed a proclamation giving it formal effect.

Of Utmost Importance

Acheson said the Oatis case is a matter of the utmost importance to the American government and the American people.

So far, he added, the department has been unable to get a satisfactory response from the Prague government in connection with the imprisonment of the Associated Press Correspondent on spy charges.

The Cabinet member said U.S. diplomatic officials have never been permitted to make contact with Oatis since he was arrested.

Meanwhile, the House foreign affairs committee is debating measures calling for a break in diplomatic relations with the Czech Communist government.

Consider Action

House Foreign Affairs Chairman Richards (D. S.C.), assembled his committee to consider nearly 40 resolutions calling for various punitive measures against the Czech Communist government.

Primarily, the House proposals urge a diplomatic break and severance of trade relations.

The State Department anticipated the latter move late Tuesday by terminating most-favored nation trade agreements concluded with Czechoslovakia in 1947 before that country fell under the Kremlin's control.

Imprisonment of Associated Press Correspondent Oatis on the spying charges following a "confession" obtained at the climax of lengthy incommunicado treatment has stirred the Washington government, the national press and radio and the public generally.

CHRISTIAN PRINCIPLES IN BUSINESS
JESUS AND PAUL TELL US HOW TO LIVE WHILE EARNING OUR LIVING

Parable of the rich man who built new barns.
"Whatsoever ye do, work heartily."—Colossians 3:23
Scripture—Luke 12:13-48; 18:18-24; Acts 16:11-15; I Thessalonians 4:10-12; II Thessalonians 3:7-10.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

Right now, in this modern world and in our own nation, we can improve our working habits (many of us) by reading our Bible and learning what Jesus and St. Paul commanded their followers to do.

We hear too much these days about workers who shirk their jobs; or do them in a slovenly manner. Big pay and little work seems to be their motto, and even the importance of being on the job seems immaterial to many. This attitude is not confined to any particular branch of workers; it infests jobs in all lines of work.

Of course there are people—many of them—who take pride in their work and do a faithful and workmanlike job. However, in the confused and uncertain state of the world, many think "What's the use," and try to forget their worries by slighting whatever work they are supposed to do.

It is not good for us personally to take such an attitude, nor is it helpful to the world that needs clear thinking and hard work to bring it out of its dithers.

St. Luke tells us of Jesus telling the parable of the man whose ground brought forth plentifully, so that he thought that he would build himself a huge barn to house the crops, and then retire and take life easy.

However, God called him a fool, for that very night his soul would be required of him, and what good would his wealth do him then? Money is not everything, nor is taking your ease while others labor, although, of course, there comes a time in the life of every man and woman, when old age comes to them, when they are not able to do hard work, and they should take life easy.

Jesus said, referring to the man who thought to store his riches, "So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God."

Then He told His disciples not to take thought for tomorrow, what they should eat, what they should drink, or where they should be clothed. God saw that the ravens were fed, how the lilies grew which were so glorious in their beauty.

"For all these things do the nations of the world seek after: and your Father knoweth that ye have need of these things."

And again, "Fear not, little flock; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom."

Then the Lord compared the "faithful, wise steward" who did his work faithfully and well whether his master was present or absent, and the one who, when the master was away and not expected back soon, would take liberties with his job.

To the first the master would give more responsibilities and more lucrative duties. To the second "stripes" were administered.

The rich young man who came to Jesus to ask how he could be saved, also illustrates the point of how worthless is money, a bad property to bring true happiness.

Jesus asked him, you remember, to obey the Mosaic laws, and the young man said he had done so from childhood. One thing more was needed the Lord told him: "Sell all thou hast and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven; and come, follow Me."

The young man could not bring himself to part with his wealth, however, and so he turned sorrowfully away.

Now we turn to St. Paul's letters to the Thessalonians, where Paul writes, "That ye study to be quiet, and to do your own business, and to work with your own hands, as we commanded you."

"That ye may walk honestly toward them that are without, and that ye may have lack of nothing."

Again, Paul reminds the Thessalonians that, while he was with them, "we behaved not ourselves disorderly among you;

"Neither did we eat any man's bread for naught; but wrought with labor and travail night and day, that we might not be chargeable to any of you;

"Not because we have not power, but to make ourselves an example (example) unto you to follow us.

"For even when we were with you, this we commanded you, that if any would not work, neither should he eat."

As a matter of fact, life holds few satisfactions that surpass that of knowing we have done a job well and in a workmanlike manner. Whether it is digging ditches, planting a flower garden, building a house or furnishing it after it is built.

Bookkeeping, typing, writing, selling—no matter what our work is—we can get a wonderful feeling when we do it and do it well. Not only that, but it is a benefit to the world at large, because it shows the solid character of the worker, and the world needs such.

Search Continues For Missing Pair

YUMA, Ariz., August 2.—(INS)—Intrepid desert dwellers, after searching with hundreds of others through mid-day heat up to 120 degrees, continued on through the early morning hours today looking for a couple missing since July 16 when their light plane ran out of fuel.

Objects of the search are pretty Malverne, L. I. student nurse June Walker, 22, and Klaus Martens, 28-year-old automobile agency executive from south Pasadena, Cal.

No trace of the pair has been discovered since their plane was found Tuesday 84 miles southeast of Yuma. A note pinned to it read:

"We're leaving the plane at 5:45 a. m. Monday (July 16) and we're walking west."

It was signed by Martens and Miss Walker, a student nurse at Huntington Memorial Hospital in Pasadena.

Added Daylight In Homes Helps To Curb Accidents

NEW YORK—(INS)—Better daylighting of home interiors, which has been given impetus by the trend toward greater openness of design in modern architecture, is helping to make the home a safer place to live.

Topping all other danger spots, the American home was the scene of 31,000 accidental deaths last year, the National Safety Council reported.

This represented 1,500 more deaths than the 1928-32 average. Actually, however, the 1949 toll reflected a decrease on the basis of the added number of homes and people. In 1939 there were 122,775,046 persons in this country. Today there are 150,697,361. Twenty years ago there were 30,000,000 homes. Today there are approximately 43,000,000.

Safety authorities say brighter interiors made possible by larger windows and floor-to-ceiling glass walls, has helped to cut down the accident toll. Patterned glass in partitions of modern homes also is effective in diffusing daylight.

"The increased use of glass, together with the better interior daylighting it affords, has eliminated many of the dark corners, poorly-lighted stairways and other places where accidents formerly occurred because of reduced visibility," said Frank Sohn, architectural consultant of Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company.

Oddly enough, the bedroom proved the most dangerous spot in the home on the basis of one survey which also showed the living room to be one of the safer places.

Falls Largest
The survey of 987 accidental deaths recorded by the Kansas Board of Health and the Nassau County, N. Y. Health department, disclosed 25.6 per cent of these home fatalities occurred in the bedroom while only 5.9 per cent happened in the living room where much of the home life centers.

Sohn explained that the high percentage of deaths occurring in the bedroom may be attributed to the fact that sleeping quarters are generally closed off by doors and partitions from the rest of the house and oftentimes are not as brightly daylighted as other living quarters.

The living room, dining room, and other rooms are generally connected by open archways which eliminate unsightly doors that tend to block off light and make for darker sections which foster accidents.

Falls, which accounted for 15,700 deaths in the home last year and represented the largest single cause of such accidents, oftentimes can be avoided if rooms are adequately lighted during the day and night.

Summing up the frequency with which accidents occur in the home, the National Safety Council says one person is killed every 17 minutes while another is injured every seven seconds.

COMRADE

HONG KONG, (INS)—The office boy of Hong Kong's ultra-Communist morning newspaper, Wen Wei Pao, is serving a 6-months prison term for taking Communism too seriously. The boy, overcome by the plight of refugees reaching the colony, cashed a check for $800 to alleviate their misery. The Communist management of the newspaper, to whom the check belonged, decided that this was carrying comradeship a little too far and informed the police.

Hesse Jewels Are Returned

Famous Stolen Jewels Restored To German Owners

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—(INS)—The army announced Monday that it has returned the famous Hesse jewels to their owners in Germany, from whom they were stolen by an army officer and his wife.

The transfer was made today in a ceremony in Frankfurt, Germany. The members of the German royal family owning the jewels were present to receive them from Brig. Gen. C. B. Mickelwait of the army.

The famous gems were stolen from a castle in Germany at the end of World War II by Army Col. Jack Durant and his wife, WAC Capt. Kathleen Durant. Both were convicted.

Today's announcement revealed that the priceless gems left Washington by air and under military guard on July 27th. They arrived safely at Frankfurt the night of July 28th.

Many Valuable Jewels
Included were a platinum bracelet encrusted with 405 diamonds, a platinum watch and bracelet with 606 diamonds, a sapphire weighing 116.2 carats, a group of diamonds weighing 282 carats, a gold bracelet with 27 diamonds, 54 rubies and 67 emeralds.

The owners receiving the jewels were listed by the army as follows: her royal highness Margarethe, Landgräfin of Hesse, Wolfgang, prince of Hesse, Philipp, prince of Hesse, Richard, prince of Hesse, and Sophia, princess of Hanover.

Some of the jewels, which were taken from the Hesse family in 1945, were brought to the U. S. illegally and others were brought as evidence. They have been in custody of the Treasury department under the supervision of the army.

A part of the Hesse jewels are still unaccounted for but the return today was believed to include all that were brought to the U. S.

Hub Caps Stolen From Two Autos

Woman Fails To Work Bunco Game

Confidence woman got fooled yesterday and although sought by police was not found.

She approached a Sixth ward young woman, said a relative "had been framed by police, and was under arrest" and needed help.

While she poured out her tale of "woe," a young man approached the two women.

He said he had just found a lot of money and told them he wanted them to share it.

As soon as he said this the young woman decided he and the woman were accomplices and attempting to swindle her.

She left and notified police. They conducted a futile search for the pair.

Former Wife Of Gerhart Eisler To Be Witness

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—(INS)—Senate Sleuths today question an admitted former Soviet spy who helped convict Alges Hiss in their quest for more information about Communist activities in the U. S.

Scheduled to testify before the Senate Anti-subversives committee is Hede Massing, ex-wife of Gerhart Eisler, international Communist leader. She was a Red agent in Washington from 1933 to 1937.

Mrs. Massing appeared before the committee in secret session on April 30 and May 1 but the nature of her testimony was not disclosed.

Chairman McCarran (D) Nev., however, predicted that she will identify "some people" as left-wingers. Some sources speculated that they might be connected with the Institute of Pacific Relations which is under committee investigation.

Mrs. Massing, who renounced Communism, is author of a book, "This Deception," in which she tells of her attempts to recruit sources of information for the Communists in Washington by posing as a writer.

In her book she told of meeting Alger Hiss, who was convicted of perjury as a result of her testimony, and of knowing the late Lawrence Duggan, and Noel and Herta Field, who have disappeared behind the iron curtain.

Thousands of persons will be visiting woods or picnic areas during the remainder of the summer and, regardless of where they go there is a likelihood of encountering poison ivy or deadly mushrooms. Few recognize poison ivy when they see it or realize what discomfort it causes.

Poison ivy often crawls and creeps among useful shrubs and plants that grow in the woods. Like many other undesirable things, it persists in mingling with the good growth of the earth. There is no off-season for the ivy, in the winter when the foliage is gone the vine is almost as dangerous as it is in the summer.

Be careful when in the woods during the warm days. When the oil in the leaves or vine comes in contact with clothing or shoes, the skin of the wearer may become irritated within four or five days from handling the garments.

No one is entirely immune to this troublesome vine and the slightest contact with it may bring serious results. The effect on the skin is like that of being scalded with hot water. Oil that gets into any open sore causes great agony and calls for the service of a doctor. It is unwise to handle any vine found growing in the woods unless you are entirely familiar with them. The poison ivy vine carries glossy green leaves which vary in shape but always are in clusters of three and thus may be distinguished from the five-leaved Virginia creeper.

Cures for poison ivy are many. One is to wash the sore every hour with hot soapy or salt water. This usually will eliminate the stinging.

When city folks take to the woods they are in a strange land and are apt to pick poisonous mushrooms. The fly-amanita is a mushroom that looks like the shady woods. It has a cap that ranges from orange to white, with raised or scales all over the cap. The poison of the fly-amanita is alkaloid and very deadly and its effects do not show up until it is too late to do anything for the victim.

There are more than twenty different kinds of poisonous mushrooms. And they vary in color and size. And when some of them mature they resemble the wholesome field mushrooms.

Plan To Settle State Income Tax Plan Issue

HARRISBURG, Aug. 2.—(INS)—A "once and for all" showdown on Gov. John S. Fine's proposed income tax is scheduled for Monday by the Senate Finance Committee.

The outcome will determine how much longer the 1951 session will meet. To dispel conflicting statements about the tax, said Senate President Pro Tem M. Jarvey Taylor, "it has been suggested by the Republican caucus that steps be taken to settle this issue once and for all."

Monday Is Set.
Senate Finance Committee Chairman T. Newell Wood immediately set Monday as the meeting date before both Houses adjourned for the remainder of the week.

The proposed one-half of one per cent income tax which Fine offered as a means to raise about $119,000,000 to balance a biennial budget of $1,220,000,000 was buried in the finance committee May 14 when the GOP caucus voted not to send it to the floor for a record ballot.

Eleven of the 30 Republican Senators, headed by Majority Leader John M. Walker, have announced they will not support the income tax under any circumstances.

Combined with the 20-member Democratic bloc, solidly opposed to any new taxes, the recalcitrant GOP Senators are strong enough to bottle the bill.

Find Slain Man On Ship Leaving New York Harbor

HOBOKEN, N. J., August 2.—(INS)—The world's busiest port—New York Harbor—provided police today with a mystery slaying discovered just as an outboard Holland-American freighter sailed past the Statue of Liberty.

The victim, Erbo Charles Zustra, 58, of west New York, was found slashed to death in the main deck shower room of the Caribbean-bound 7,600-ton Alphacca.

A longshoreman's baling hook was beside his body. The ship, which had left a Hoboken, N. J., pier ten minutes earlier and was being towed into deep water by a tug, was ordered to drop anchor immediately.

The Coastguard, New York and Hoboken police immediately swung into action, but after an 8-hour delay the Alphacca was cleared and permitted to continue its voyage to Trinidad.

The victim's sister, Mrs. Nellie Monlon of North Bergen, N. J., could give police no motive for the slaying. She said she knew of no enemies of her brother.

Police speculated that the killing may have something to do with New Jersey waterfront violence and plan to question a number of dock workers.

The body was taken temporarily to the New York City morgue at Bellevue hospital. If investigation determines that the slaying occurred at a Hoboken pier, as indicated, jurisdiction in the case will be resumed by New Jersey authorities.

Further Plans For Pilgrimage

At a special meeting on Wednesday plans were furthered for the 1951 pilgrimage trip to St. Anne de Beaupre, Quebec, Can. The trip, scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 23, to September 2, is sponsored by the L. C. B. A. branch No. 467 of St. Joseph's church.

Mrs. Marie J. Metz, East Washington street, is the general chairman. Assisting is Miss Palma Julian.

The pilgrimage bus will leave the local bus depot Thursday morning, Aug. 23, promptly at 8:30. According to the chairman, several reservations are still open. Those interested may contact either Mrs. Metz or Miss Julian.

THE COUNTY FAIR

Let's Go to the Fair
The pungent smell of crushed grass mingling with those of popcorn, spun candy, hot dogs and other equally racy odors are the first and most typically characteristic of the county fair trade-marks to assail the senses of the fair goer.

The foregoing, however, combine with a hurly-burly of sounds calculated to fortify the impressions registered by the nose. The slightly off-tune and pleasantly monotonous music of the merry-go-round, the sporadic spurts of the pep-music emanating from scattered bands erupting like so many maverick volcanoes; the raucous, leathern lunged tirades of the barkers, the lowing cattle, bleating sheep, cackling fowl—all combining in a cacophony so pleasant and yet utterly harsh if it was associated with any other source.

Past and Present
The county fair is a typically American institution playing a major part in making our country great. It projects the objectives instituted by the Aztecs of Mexico and other early Americans. Many hundreds of years ago groups of savage people would periodically gather in certain spots to exchange goods. Often these savages were at war with each other. But when they met on the "fair ground" for trade, they declared a truce. This peace was never broken.

Fairs are now special gatherings of people for buying and selling, for holding contests, and for having a good time. And if one doesn't have a good time at a modern fair it's his own fault.

The rivalry of the 4-H club contestants is instructive as they grade and judge cattle, poultry, and farm produce. The rivalry is no less keen among the adult home makers with their cakes and jellies and pickles and pumpkins. They represent the very wool and warp of our country; the makers of families and homes without which no nation can be great.

My earliest impressions of the county fair go back more years than I like to admit, but they consist largely of vague memories encompassing merry-go-rounds, Ferris wheels and other rides so dear to children. However, there is one early incident which stand out cameo clear. It was when I caught the greased pig. After the slippery porked had been thoroughly sanded by the horde of boys and young men bent on catching it, a lucky dive and a grab about the ankle of the squealer turned the trick.

Flight of the Bumble Bee
Perhaps I was more fortunate than most youngsters, but I saw Professor Bonhomme make a flight of some 200 yards in a flimsy contraption of wires and bamboo christened "The Bumble Bee" only to come to grief in a nearby corn field. I had the distinction of being the first to reach the body injured airman as he stood upright half buried in the soft soil of the field. The following year he confined his aerial antics to his air balloon ascensions (two daily).

As the sophistication of age crept upward, the harness races, the side shows and their charmers (snake), and later on, the auto races claimed my interest. Yet, in retrospect, it wasn't one thing but the combination of many which indelibly impressed the county fair on my memory.

For a few hours of nostalgic experiences the county fair, any county fair, is recommended. It is one American institution which has changed but little except in the trappings. Its spirit is undying.

Indians Defeat Butler 13-8, Creep Closer To First Place

Schedule Double-Header Tonight At Butler, Niagara Here Saturday

New Castle's red-hot Indians crept closer to first place in the turbulent Middle-Atlantic League today with a stunning 13-8 win at Butler last night, their fourth straight win.

Tonight the Tribemen and Pirates will battle in a twin-bill starting at 6:30 o'clock.

Niagara Here Saturday

Manager Al Milnar has Bill Ciske and probably Klafter ready for mound duty. Bickel turned in a well-relied job for Churchill, last night as "Herbie" faltered in the eighth inning. Churchill (4-3) was the winner.

The Indians return home Saturday for a big "Al Milnar Night" battle with Niagara Falls here. Lockport topped Niagara last and straight single and Vierirra homered.

In the fourth Sakinich walked and Churchill doubled him home. Toles fanned. Green lifted to right and Kowalski fanned.

Bucs Generous

The Bucs got generous in the sixth. Horne and Sakinich walked and Churchill moved them up. Horne scored after Toles' loft to center. Green singled to plate Sakinich. He stole second. Kowalski lifted to Vierirra who dropped it and Green scored. Lavigne joffed to Subbiondo. In the seventh Frisina singled. Magula bounced to Fundora and Frisina beat the play at second. Horne singled Frisina home when the infield moved in for a sacrifice. Malack came in for Butler and got out of the jam.

The Bucs took the lead in the last of the seventh. With one away Chiappini walked. Fundora got his third single. Vierirra walked to fill the bases. Machinsky singled Chiappini and Fundora home. McCauley fanned Watson and Subbiondo walked to force over Vierirra. Batty forced Watson at third. Indians Score Five

SECOND WARD WINS

Second Ward defeated the Sixth Ward 9-3 Wednesday evening in a New Castle Little Big League game at Lee Avenue. P. Doran was the winning pitcher, McCummings the loser.

Billy Patterson had two fine plays at second base for the Second Ward. McCummings hit a home run for the Sixth.

Boak, Fiorante Selected To Participate In Legion All-Star Game In Pittsburgh

Thirty-three district youths performed before seven major league scouts and about 180 interested spectators Wednesday evening at Flaherty field in the annual American Legion All-Star game.

Five of the players were selected to participate in the all-western Pennsylvania all-star tilt at Forbes field in Pittsburgh next Tuesday evening, Aug. 7.

Selected to participate in that contest were catcher Bill Boak and second baseman Lucas Fiorante of the New Castle Legion team, pitcher Michael Smith and shortstop Robert Hoffman of the Farrell team, and catcher Randall Schrechongost of the Ford City team.

Given Instructions

The evening's program began for the players at 4:30, when they were given first-hand instructions and were carefully scrutinized during an hour and a half workout.

The first of two five-inning games got underway at seven o'clock, with every boy present getting an opportunity to play.

The five players selected all played very fine ball during their tenure in the game. Bill Boak did a fine job behind the bat and had a solid two-base hit to left center field in his first trip to the plate.

Fiorante played well in his stay at second base, making one very nice play while backing up the shortstop on a throw from the catcher.

Schrechongost Homers

Schrechongost's high home run over the left field scoreboard was his chief claim to fame. Hoffman hit well and fielded well throughout the game, and Smith pitched two innings of good ball.

Local players who looked impressive, though they were not selected, were pitcher Ray Latsko of New Castle, outfielder Pete Vessella of Chewton-Wampum, first baseman Fred Clarke of New Castle, outfielder-pitcher Todd Wilken of New Wilmington and pitcher Donald Schena of Chewton-Wampum.

First baseman John Novalesi of Chewton-Wampum made one very nice play in the field and fled to center field in his only trip to the plate. Dave Boyd of New Wilmington got in a few innings at second base, though he is ordinarily an outfielder, and John Sansone of New Castle played at shortstop for the last five innings.

Major league scouts present at the game were: Lena Blackburne, Philadelphia Athletics; Jocko Collins, Philadelphia Phillies; Eddie Katalinas, Detroit Tigers; Joe Holden, Chicago White Sox; Nick Shinekoff, New York Giants; Leo Mackey, Chicago Cubs, and Phil Weinert, Brooklyn Dodgers.

Pirates Defeat Dodgers, Indians And Yanks Split

By HOWARD SIGMUND
(N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 2. — One might suggest that the Brooklyn Dodgers and Pittsburgh Pirates are related through Branch Rickey. But when the last place Bucs earn the right to call the runaway Brooks "cousin," that's going too far.

However, the situation does exist. The Pirates, who can't beat anyone else, have taken the Dodgers nine times this season. The Brooks, who can't lose to anyone else, have beaten the Smoky City lads only six times.

Bucs Win 12-9

The Rickey touch, or whatever else it is, reared its head again last night as the Pirates turned the Bums back 12 to 9, to snap their ten-game winning streak.

Gil Hodges hit his 31st homer and Ralph Kiner his 27th.

The Glants, now nine games away, split with the Chicago Cubs. The Bruins won the opener, 3 to 2 as Cal McLish bested Larry Jansen and Rookie Al Corvin hurled New York to a 2 to 0 seven-hit shut-out triumph in the afterpiece.

Lefty Ken Raffensberger blanked the Philadelphia Phillies, 1 to 0 on four hits for the Cincinnati Reds, and Warren Spahn pitched a five-hitter as the Boston Braves edged the St. Louis Cardinals, 2 to 1.

The Tigers beat the Yanks, 9 to 8, in a marathon first game despite two homers by Gene Woodling and one by Yogi Berra and the world champs took the night-cap, 10 to 6.

Indians Split

Cleveland scored three runs in the ninth to beat Washington, 8 to 6, in a twilight game, but the Nats evened things by taking the night contest, 4 to 3, behind Julio Moreno.

Homers by Ted Williams (22) and Vern Stephens (15) and the brilliant pitching of Willard Nixon gave the Boston Red Sox a 5 to 1 win over the St. Louis Browns.

The Chicago White Sox snapped a five-game losing streak by edging the Philadelphia A's, 4 to 3.

ROSE AVENUE WINS

Rose Avenue playground defeated Mahoning playground 9-8 Tuesday in a Midget league game. Jerry Navarra was the winning pitcher. Snyder went for Mahoning.

Ambrosia, Nick Navarra, P. Fava and L. George did the heavy hitting for Rose avenue, while Conti and Synder did well for Mahoning.

Little League Baseball Park Opening Aug. 7

Little League Baseball Park at the Dean Park site, Taylor street, will have its opening Tuesday evening, August 7, it was decided last night at a meeting of league officials.

The park is near completion and a fine opening program is being planned. It was also decided at the meeting to have a Tag Day on Saturday, August 11, with the boys from the ward teams selling tags on the streets and from house to house. The league is currently $1,800 in the red and is hoping to raise quite a bit of money from sale of tags. The boy from each ward collecting the most money in his box will receive a free trip to Pittsburgh for a game.

Fourth Leads Race
Meanwhile, the Fourth Ward is in first place with a 6-1 record for the first round. The Third Ward is only one-half game behind and will play its tie game with the Eighth Ward off Friday evening at Lee Avenue Field.

The league will play two rounds, with the first-round champs to meet the second-round champs for the league championship. Second-round games will be played at Little League Park and at Lee Avenue.

The first round is completed except for the playoff between the Third and Eighth Wards.

Walcott-Charles Return Bout Will Be Held Next Year

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—(INS)—Jersey Joe Walcott is going to get a chance to cash in on his heavyweight title before defending the crown.

The heavyweight king was granted an extension last night on the 90-day time limit within which he was to defend his title against Ezzard C. Charles, the man he defeated.

At a meeting attended by Felix

Boechicchio, Walcott's manager, and Jake Mintz and Tom Tannas, co-managers of Charles, and International Boxing resident Jim Norris, it was decided to hold off the return bout until after the first of next year.

It was decided to put the date and site of the fight up to Norris, who more than likely will try to save it for one of the big city ball parks next summer.

The agreement affords Walcott a chance to make some money in exhibitions and other public appearances.

Teamsters Win Playoff Battle

Defeat Scotts, 9-8, To Sweep Series

Teamsters eliminated Scotts from the City Softball League championship playoffs Wednesday evening at Gaston Park with a 9-8 win.

It was the second one-run victory for the Teamsters over the Scotts in their best-of-three first-round series. Monday evening the Teamsters won 1-0.

It was Embroski again last night that pulled the Teamsters through. Pinchhitting for Rhodes in the sixth inning with the Teamsters trailing 8-5 Embroski hit a long home run with two on base to tie the score.

He then went in and pitched two scoreless innings to receive credit for the win, when the Teamsters scored the winning run in the top half of the seventh on Mooney's single. Nuzzo's sacrifice and Tempy's double.

Mooney sparked at shortstop for the winners and also contributed three hits to the cause. Kennedy had three hits for Scotts. Smith was the losing pitcher.

Score by innings: R H E
Teamsters.....131 903 1—9 12 1
Scotts.....010 079 0—8 11 1

Batteries: Teamsters—Maggie, Rhoads; Embroski, (6) and DeJoseph; Scotts: Lane, Smith (6) and Hawkins.

NEVER WORRY
KLAMATH FALLS, Ore.—(INS)—Want to mow your yard on your 101st birthday? Don't worry. That's the prescription of Wilmott Crandall of Klamath Falls, who not only mowed the grass on his 101st birthday but also takes care of the yards and does odd jobs at several places he owns and rents to tenants. Crandall reads fine print without his glasses. He smokes one cigar a day, he says, and never worries.
